Rockets Weather Once Hard Gusts

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Hurricane Cleo, no longer the blustering monster that roared through Miami, slapped weakly today at the rockets of Cape Kennedy and the city of Daytona Beach.

But the Miami Weather Bureau reported a tendency to redevelop in the offshore portion of the eye, and warned that the present northward track will carry the storm again over the Atlantic where Cleo could draw new energy from the warm Gulf Stream.

Only a 43-mile breeze, punctuated by an occasional gust up to 60, marked the passage of the once vicious storm to the west of Daytona Beach. Damage was superficial.

Hurricane warnings remained up north to Brunswick, Ga., and a hurricane watch was in effect to Charleston, S.C.

138 Death Toll
A curving, 2,500-mile path of death and destruction was behind the hurricane. Her known death toll stood at 138.

At 8 a.m. (EST), the center of the wind circulation was estimated by the Weather Bureau to be near Flagler Beach, 13 miles north of Daytona Beach.

The only hurricane winds occurring at the time were in gusts, but warnings were left unchanged, pending a penetration of the hurricane by aircraft.

Winds were gusting at 45 miles an hour at Jacksonville Beach and six foot swells pounded the coast. Moderate to heavy rains spread northward into Georgia.

Cleo, which left Miami and 200 miles of Florida's "Gold Coast" looking like a battle zone after striking with winds up to 115 miles an hour, hit Cape Kennedy with winds that peaked at 65 m.p.h.

Rockets Ride Out Storm
That was 10 miles below hurricane strength, not enough to cause serious damage to the sprawling facility, which was prepared to weather winds more than twice that velocity.

Six giant space rockets rode out the storm lashed securely to their launching pads and crews resumed the work of readying them for firing.

The Weather Bureau at Miami said Cleo was expected to move offshore this morning and intensify. Hurricane warnings remained up at Brunswick, Ga., and gale warnings extended to Hatteras.

The storm was moving at about 10 m.p.h.

Cleo took no lives in Florida, but the death toll still was climbing in the southwestern tip of Haiti, far behind in the Caribbean.

80 Killed in Haiti
In the Haitian port city of Les Cayes, Cleo killed 80 persons, destroyed or damaged nearly every building and left the population of 20,000 bewildered and with little food.

Authorities reported Thursday that 44 other persons were known to have died in the surrounding countryside, bringing to 124 the official death toll from Monday's howling winds.

Earlier, Cleo killed 14 on the Parents Urged To Demand Funds For School Walks

Mayor John J. Schwenk today asked all parents of children who will attend the John F. Kennedy and Sophie Finn Schools to urge their aldermen to appropriate the necessary funds for the construction of curbs and sidewalks on the main school approaches.

The mayor said that Alderman Anthony Alecca (R) Fifth Ward, Donald Tucker (R) Fourth Ward, Leonard Van Dyke (D) Sixth Ward, and Peter Mancuso (D) Eighth Ward voted against the appropriation and were responsible for "denying sidewalk and curb safety protection to the children of their wards who attend the schools." Alderman Robert Gallo (D) Ninth Ward, was absent from the meeting, the Mayor noted, and therefore did not vote.

"However, I think he would appreciate knowing how the parents of his ward feel about this matter," the mayor said.

Mayor Schwenk explained that five Republican aldermen voted for the appropriation which required nine votes to pass. "If the four aldermen who voted against are convinced their constituents desire passage of the appropriation," he said, "perhaps they will change their position and provide the four additional votes required for approval."

"The opponents of the appropriation have attempted to insinuate the issue of how much the property owners involved should pay for the sidewalk and curb improvements to their own property," Mayor Schwenk said.

On the agenda today were a news conference, sidewalk tours, rallies and a major speech tonight at the Chautauqua Institution in Southwestern New York.

His daytime schedule had him in the New York-Pennsylvania border area. Miller discussed the forthcoming campaign with reporters Thursday at his summer home at Olcott, on Lake Ontario.

After his discharge Wednesday, from Buffalo General Hospital, where he sailed smoothly through a three-day physical checkup, Miller returned to Olcott for a round of strategy conferences. Those present included his campaign manager, William S. Warner.

Miller said that he would debate Humphrey on television only if President Johnson debated the GOP presidential nominee, Sen. Barry Goldwater.

The Republican vice presidential candidate described the Goldwater-Miller ticket as "moderately conservative" and the Johnson-Humphrey slate as "moderately liberal."

But, as for Humphrey individually, Miller said he recalled the Minnesota senator as a "sort of raving liberal" in his early days in Congress.

Roving Mobs Are Defying Pleas for Peace in Saigon

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Mobs roamed the littered streets of Saigon today, waving machetes and meat cleavers as heavily armed troops stood guard to prevent further bloodshed.

Street gangs defied pleas from Catholic, Buddhist, and government leaders to lay down their arms and go home.

A mob of 200 predominantly Buddhist youths carrying clubs and hatchets set fire to a Catholic newspaper office and school while police looked on. The incident was a renewal of Thursday's organized violence that turned the capital into a nightmare of lawlessness and mob rule.

60 Innocent Injured
Scores were wounded in fierce battles that left the streets cluttered with bricks, broken bottles and glass. Hospitals reported more than 60 innocent persons were injured.

Police placed the death toll at four. Newsmen, however, counted at least eight bodies.

Old political and religious antagonisms between Buddhists and Roman Catholics that led to the downfall last November of President Ngo Dinh Diem's government stirred the fighting.

The instability in the Communist-threatened nation posed a major test for the triumvirate of Maj. Gen. Nguyen Khanh and two other top officers selected by the military junta to lead South Viet Nam for two months.

Trio's Future Cloudy
The role of the triumvirate remained cloudy. Khanh, 37, told a news conference the junta had not accepted his resignation as president.

The leader also said the junta, which was supposed to have dissolved, still was at work seeking a political solution for the nation.

Focal points of tension today remained the joint general staff headquarters near Saigon's airport, the central market, Saigon's main radio station and a high school. Several hundred demonstrators milled outside the gates of the general staff headquarters.

Troops armed with tear gas stood guard behind barbed wire barricades strung across the entrance.

Chief Murphy Urges Extreme Caution for School Opening

Police Chief Robert F. Murphy today emphasized the need of extra caution among drivers when schools reopen, and drew attention to the safety campaign of the Automobile Club of New York, supported by the New York State Association of Chiefs of Police, other organizations and officials.

A report of this year's campaign notes that from thousands of street poles in the state, including this area, "colorful safety posters will help dramatize the need for added alertness by motorists during the school re-opening period."

Before Keating's Arrival
The accident occurred at about 3:45 p. m., 15 minutes before the arrival at the county fair of Sen. Kenneth B. Keating.

Among the injured were Josephine Jones, 68, of Kingston, who was treated at the Red Cross First Aid Station for abrasions of the left arm; Virginia Galluzzo, 23, of New Paltz, who suffered injuries of the right knee and a scraped left instep; Mrs. Wilhelmina Soper, 67, of Ulster Park, who sustained chest injuries, and James Radin, 4, who received a cut lower lip, and Edward Radin, 12, injury of the left leg. The latter four were treated at the hospital in Rhinebeck.

The Radin boys are sons of Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Radin of 123 Delacy Avenue, North Plainfield, N. J., who have a summer home on Route 3, Saugerties.

According to state police, the mishap occurred during a stunt by Kochman's Hell Drivers, a featured thriller presented at the afternoon and night performance of the free grandstand show.

Form County Group For Goldwater-Miller
An Ulster County for Goldwater-Miller Committee was organized Thursday at a meeting held at Governor Clinton Hotel.

A statement issued by the publicity committee of the group described the gathering as "large and enthusiastic," and the committee for the election of Arizona Senator Barry Goldwater as president and New York Congressman William E. Miller for vice president will be composed of county residents of all political faiths.

As a statement of policy, a resolution was approved at the meeting indicating that the organization's sole function will be to support and work for the National Republican ticket for Goldwater and Miller.

Kicking off the meeting was an address by Raymond Pitcairn of Pennsylvania who is a summer resident of Ulster County and a leading Republican figure on the national scene. Four years ago Pitcairn headed the radio campaign for Richard Nixon and this year has been spearheading a massive Goldwater drive in his home state of Pennsylvania.

Pitcairn gave his wholehearted support to the local Goldwater effort and explained how the Pennsylvania organization was being set up. Pitcairn also showed a series of pictures taken at the recent meeting at Hershey, of Senator Goldwater, Representative Miller, former President Eisenhower and other

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Accepting their nominations with the roaring tributes of the Democratic National Convention, President Johnson and Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey quickly turned today to the practical business of shaping a campaign aimed at defeating their Republican opponents.

Before they were to leave for a weekend at the LBJ ranch near Johnson City, Tex., the President and Humphrey, his vice presidential running mate, arranged to brief the party's national committee on their fast-forming political plans.

First Humphrey and then Johnson stood Thursday night in the blazing lights on the podium to tell thousands of Democrats at the closing session of their convention that they had enlisted their energies in a crusade to build "the great society" in a tumultuous world.

The President, interrupted time and again by applause, said, in accepting nomination for a first four-year elective term, that the election is "not between liberals and conservatives, party and party, platform and platform."

"It is between courage and timidity," he shouted. "It is between those who see what can be, and those who want only to maintain the status quo. It is between those who welcome the future and those who turn away from its promise."

Effort for Peace
He pledged "a constant, patient effort to move the world toward peace."

"I will use the full resources of the federal government," to assure fair play to all Americans, he continued, and said that his talents would be directed toward "bringing our nation together in unity."

"In pursuit of this common purpose," he said, "I believe we shall someday see an America that knows no North, or South, no East, or West — an America undivided by creed or color, unborn by suspicion or strife."

To accomplish this, he said that "those who break the law — those who create disorder — whether in the North or in the South — must be caught and brought to justice."

"In every part of this country the law must be respected and violence must be checked," he said.

Humphrey gave the crowd a lot more to yell about.

The ebullient Minnesota senator, in his acceptance speech, flailed away at Republican presidential nominee Barry Goldwater's lack of interest in the Democratic ticket.

"The Democrats will have a punch-slinging equivalent of Rep. William E. Miller, the GOP vice presidential nominee, in the campaign."

President of the People
Humphrey extolled Johnson as "the president of all the people" and invited "responsible and progressive Republicans" to enlist under the Democratic banner.

Earlier in the day, addressing a rally of 15,000 Young Democrats, he cautioned them not to boo the mention of Goldwater's

Miller Remembers Humphrey As 'Sort of Raving Liberal'

OLEAN, N.Y. (AP)—Back on the campaign circuit, GOP vice presidential nominee William E. Miller says he remembers his opponent as a "sort of raving liberal" in his early days in Congress.

And, suggests the New York congressman, discussion of Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey's connection with Americans for Democratic Action, pictured by Republicans as having leftist inclinations, will be a legitimate issue during the campaign.

"They link us to the John Birch Society," Miller said of the Democrats. "Now Mr. Humphrey should be asked about his associations with the ADA."

Miller's slams at Humphrey and the campaign swing on his schedule today were in the nature of a warmup.

His formal campaign will not open until next Saturday — at "Bill Miller Day" at the Niagara County Fairgrounds just outside his home city of Lockport, N.Y.

On the agenda today were a news conference, sidewalk tours, rallies and a major speech tonight at the Chautauqua Institution in Southwestern New York.

His daytime schedule had him in the New York-Pennsylvania border area. Miller discussed the forthcoming campaign with reporters Thursday at his summer home at Olcott, on Lake Ontario.

Cheerful at Wedding He said she had experienced mild heart attacks in the past. They didn't, however, seem to slow her down much. Ten days ago she and her husband were among the guests at the gala wedding reception for Edie Adams and her new husband, Marty Mills.

She appeared effervescent and cheerful, as she has been since her retirement in 1958. Until then, the strain of sustaining her nitwit role sometimes made her tense and withdrawn.

Not One of the Hums At the time of her retirement, Burns explained why she quit: "She's never missed acting for a minute. She never was a ham, anyway. Most actors are aware of playing to an audience. Not Gracie. The side of the stage toward the audience was a wall to her. She concentrated only on what she had to say and never gave a thought to cameras or lights or makeup or anything."

"She deserved a rest. She had been working all her life, and her lines were the toughest in the world to do. They didn't make sense, so she had to memorize every word. It took a real actress."

"Every spare moment — in bed, under the hair dryer — had to be spent in learning lines. Do you wonder that she's happy to be rid of it?"

Cooper Lake Is 8.2 Feet Below Spillway Level

Cooper Lake, Kingston's main reservoir, as of this morning, was 8.2 feet below spillway level, which is uncomfortably close to the depleted supply on the same date of the drought year of 1957. Although serious enough, Edmund T. Cloonan, water department superintendent, noted, the situation "is not critical." It could become a problem in the next two or three weeks, he indicated, if the drought continues.

Last Good Rains in April

The last replenishing rains, he noted, date back to April, and the city has been drawing on reserve supply during June, July and August.

On August 28, 1957, Cooper Lake was 10.4 feet down. By October of that year, however, it was some 17 feet below capacity crest, and the city prepared to purchase water from New York City's Ashokan Reservoir.

He pledged "a constant, patient effort to move the world toward peace."

"I will use the full resources of the federal government," to assure fair play to all Americans, he continued, and said that his talents would be directed toward "bringing our nation together in unity."

"In pursuit of this common purpose," he said, "I believe we shall someday see an America that knows no North, or South, no East, or West — an America undivided by creed or color, uniform by suspicion or strife."

To accomplish this, he said that "those who break the law — those who create disorder — whether in the North or in the South — must be caught and brought to justice."

"In every part of this country the law must be respected and violence must be checked," he said.

Humphrey gave the crowd a lot more to yell about.

The ebullient Minnesota senator, in his acceptance speech, flailed away at Republican presidential nominee Barry Goldwater. His tack indicated that the Democrats will have a punch-slugging equivalent of Rep. William E. Miller, the GOP vice presidential nominee, in the campaign.

President of the People

Humphrey extolled Johnson as "the president of all the people" and invited "responsible and progressive Republicans" to enlist under the Democratic banner.

Earlier in the day, addressing a rally of 15,000 Young Democrats, he cautioned them not to lose the mention of Goldwater's (Continued on Page 14, Col. 3)

Miller Remembers Humphrey As 'Sort of Raving Liberal'

OLEAN, N.Y. (AP)—Back on the campaign circuit, GOP vice presidential nominee William E. Miller says he remembers his opponent as a "sort of raving liberal" in his early days in congress.

And, suggests the New York congressman, discussion of Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey's connections with America for Democratic Action, pictured by Republicans as having leftist inclinations, will be a legitimate issue during the campaign.

Miller's slams at Humphrey and the campaign swing on his schedule today were in the nature of a warmup.

His formal campaign will not open until next Saturday — at "Bill Miller Day" at the Niagara County Fairgrounds just outside his home city of Lockport, N.Y.

On the agenda today were a news conference, sidewalk tours, rallies and a major speech tonight at the Chautauqua Institution in Southwestern New York.

His daytime schedule had him in the New York-Pennsylvania border area.

After his discharge Wednesday, from Buffalo General Hospital, where he sailed smoothly through a three-day physical checkup, Miller returned to Olcott for a round of strategy conferences. Those present included his campaign manager, William S. Warner.

Miller said that he would debate Humphrey on television only if President Johnson debated the GOP presidential nominee, Sen. Barry Goldwater.

The Republican vice presidential candidate described the Goldwater - Miller ticket as "moderately conservative" and the Johnson-Humphrey slate as "moderately liberal."

But, as for Humphrey individually, Miller said he recalled the Minnesota senator as a "sort of raving liberal" in his early days in Congress.

Form County Group For Goldwater-Miller

An Ulster County for Goldwater-Miller Committee was organized Thursday at a meeting held at Governor Clinton Hotel.

A statement issued by the publicity committee of the group described the gathering as "large and enthusiastic," and the committee for the election of Arizona Senator Barry Goldwater as president and New York Congressman William E. Miller for vice president will be composed of county residents of all political faiths.

As a statement of policy, a resolution was approved at the meeting indicating that the organization's sole function will be to support and work for the National Republican ticket for Goldwater and Miller.

Kicking off the meeting was an address by Raymond Pitcairn of Pennsylvania who is a summer resident of Ulster County and a leading Republican figure on the national scene. Four years ago Pitcairn headed the radio campaign for Richard Nixon and this year has been spearheading a massive Goldwater drive in his home state of Pennsylvania.

Pitcairn gave his wholehearted support to the local Goldwater effort and explained how the Pennsylvania organization was being set up. Pitcairn also showed a series of pictures taken at the recent meeting at Hershey, of Senator Goldwater, Representative Miller, former President Eisenhower and other (Continued on Page 8, Col. 2)

Mahoney Acts as Peacemaker Between GOP, Conservatives

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—One of the state's top Republicans, Senate Majority Leader Walter J. Mahoney, moved today as an unofficial peacemaker in a dispute between his party and the Conservative Party over presidential electors.

Even as Mahoney, of Buffalo, sought to bring the warring forces together, other GOP representatives headed for State Supreme Court to answer a Conservative Party demand for a court order that they be allowed to nominate the same electors as the Republicans.

Sources made it clear that Mahoney was not acting as a direct mediator, but that he was attempting to bring together officials from the Conservative Party, Gov. Rockefeller's office and the Republican Party.

It was understood that Mahoney proposed agreement on reached by allowing the Conservatives to name the same electors as the GOP, if they would drop plans to nominate Mrs. Clare Boothe Luce as their candidate for U.S. senator to run against the incumbent, Rochester Republican Kenneth Keating.

Position More Difficult

But Mahoney's position was made more difficult, the sources said, by the Conservative Party's court action Thursday. They believed it might stiffen Republican opposition to the Conservative's plan for presidential electors.

The Conservatives served representatives of Republican State Chairman Fred A. Young and Secretary of State John P. Lomenzo with an order, signed by Justice Louis Bruhn, to allow them to nominate the same presidential electors pledged to Sen. Barry Goldwater who will appear on the Republican ticket. The order is returnable today.

Gov. Rockefeller, Young and other GOP leaders have refused to approve such a step. They maintain that persons wishing to vote for Goldwater can do so on the Republican line.

Mrs. Luce Available

Mrs. Luce said last night she still was available for the Conservative nomination for U.S. Senator, but declined comment on reports that Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., and former Vice President Richard Nixon had asked her not to run.

Mrs. Luce has said she would withdraw as a Senate candidate if Keating would endorse Goldwater and she said:

"The Conservatives always told me from the beginning they would not run a Senate candidate if they get the electors."

The Conservatives argue that the law applies to "candidates for public office," and that electors are not "candidates for public office," in that they only cast the state's 43 electoral votes and have no discretion. The electors pledged to the candidate who receives the most votes are considered elected and cast their votes for that candidate.

The Criterions of Kingston Post 150, American Legion

Local Group Will Observe National Drum Corps Week

National Drum Corps Week is being observed across the nation this week, and the Criterions, sponsored by Kingston Post 150 of the American Legion and VFW Post 973 of Newburgh, is among the units participating in that observance.

The Criterions, founded in 1961 by a merger of the VFW Ambassadors and the Port Even Colonial Cavaliers, has scored a series of victories in that three-year period, including the Interstate Circuit Championship in 1961, and underwent a reorganization last year under the leadership of a new director, Donald Carney and Spencer E. Myers, business manager.

The corps that reorganized in 1963 with 13 men now includes personnel totaling 65 men — a reorganization that has prompted accolades from observers who have watched the Criterions in parades and marching and maneuvering competitions. The change has been marked by new personnel, new instruments, a new repertoire and a sprinking, eye-appealing unit.

The corps is the only unit in the Mid-Hudson Valley area competing in circuit contests where, to date, the Criterions have compiled an impressive string of victories, having defeated the Ballantine Brewers and Washington Carver Gay Blades of Newark, N. J.; the Whalers of New Harford, Mass.; the Wanderers of New Rochelle; the Stateliners of Byram, Conn., and the Yankees of Stratford, Conn.

Their most outstanding victory was registered Aug. 15 in a Waterbury, Conn. competition when the Criterions defeated the Hawthorne Cabelleros, American Legion national champions, in effect marching and maneuvering. In a previous contest, the Criterions outscored the Marksmen of Springfield, Mass., Northeastern Circuit champions, in bugling and marching and maneuvering.

The corps will compete in the "world open" senior competition at Bridgeport, Conn., on Saturday, opposing 32 other corps, and is scheduled for the third annual convention and championship meet of the Northeastern Circuit of Senior Marching and Maneuvering Drum Corps in Riverside Park Stadium at Agawam, Mass., on Sept. 6.

The Criterions will be included in 16 of the nation's top corps competing that day. Preliminary contests will begin at 1 p. m. and the finals at 7:30 p. m.

The other corps officers include Al Williamson, quartermaster; Don Newcomb, treasurer; John Kelse, secretary; the instructors are Hugo Everelli, drill; Gordon Barnum, bugles and Jack Pratt, drums.

Cancer Crusade In State Goes Over Its Goal

SYRACUSE—The American Cancer Society, New York State Division, today reported it had raised $1,310,486 thus far in its 1964 Cancer Crusade to top its goal of $1,300,000.

Earl A. Jung, Buffalo, chairman of the Division's Crusade Committee, said the final figure would be even higher since the Division's fiscal year does not end until August 31.

This is the first time in 10 years the division has gone over its goal.

raised more than ever before; 39 passed their 1963 totals; and 36 topped their goals.

Funds raised during the Cancer Crusade are used for cancer research, public and professional education, and service to cancer patients.

Delegates Flock Back to New York For State Parley

By JAMES DEVLIN
Associated Press Writer

ATLANTIC CITY (AP)—New York Democrats flocked homeward today from the party's national convention to get ready for another convention next week. The state convocation will choose a Senate candidate. U.S. atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, brother of the late president, has the backing of Mayor Robert F. Wagner of New York City and leaders of other populous areas of the state. He is favored to win the nomination Tuesday in the New York City party gathering. But the state convention may lack the harmony that surrounded the naming of the national ticket of President Johnson and Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota. Rep. Samuel S. Stratton of upstate Amsterdam, seeking the Senate nomination, has promised to carry his fight against Kennedy to the convention floor. Stratton contends it is "basically wrong for an outsider to run for the Senate from New York"—a reference to Kennedy as a Virginia resident and Massachusetts voter. The New Yorkers at this national convention whooped it up for President Johnson as he gave his acceptance speech at the closing session Thursday night. Earlier, many attended a reception given for Mrs. John F. Kennedy, widow of the late president, by Mr. and Mrs. W. Averell Harriman. Harriman, a backer of Robert Kennedy for the Senate, is undersecretary of state and a former governor of New York.

Maine Governor Says Camp Drum Disgrace, Unsafe

AUGUSTA, Maine, (AP)—The governor of Maine has complained that some buildings at Camp Drum, N.Y., "are truly a disgrace, and even unsafe in some instances."

Gov. John H. Reed said Thursday he wrote the Defense Department that facilities at the camp near Watertown, N.Y., are in deplorable condition. Reed said in a letter to Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara that "the situation at Camp Drum would be chaotic under present conditions" if the base were to be used for a mobilization station in case of an emergency.

The sprawling camp is used as a training site for 90,000 National Guardsmen and Army reservists each summer, and is also designated as a mobilization point. Reed said he found tracks for armor vehicles in poor condition, "dilapidated buildings that are truly a disgrace and even unsafe in some instances, and a general need for engineering repairs, particularly plumbing." "I have also been advised," he wrote, "that messing equipment is in such a state of disrepair that it will be virtually impossible to use the mess halls another year for safety and sanitary reasons."

Not a Work of Necessity
LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Kentucky's Sunday closing law is putting a crimp on weddings in Lexington. It's not a question of getting a clergyman, it's the decorations. City officials, enforcing the blue law, have told florists their activity on the Sabbath must be confined to work of necessity, like delivering flowers for funerals.

Faces Life Term For Slaying of New York Couple

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Herbert L. Shockey, 30, faced a life sentence today for the murder of a vacationing New York couple in the desert near here last February.

A Superior Court Jury found Shockey, an ex-convict, guilty Thursday in the gun and knife slaying of Mr. and Mrs. Jonn Bertella of Sherrill, N.Y. Bertella was 62, his wife was 64. Their bodies were found Feb. 24 near the Superstition Mountains, about 40 miles east of here.

The jury of nine women and three men decided on the life sentence. The prosecution had asked the death penalty. The trial lasted 15 days.

Shockey had pleaded innocent by reason of insanity.

Shockey and Theresa Robichaud, 17, of Fresno, Calif., were arrested in Nevada a month after the Bertellas were slain. They were driving the camper truck the Bertellas had taken with them on vacation.

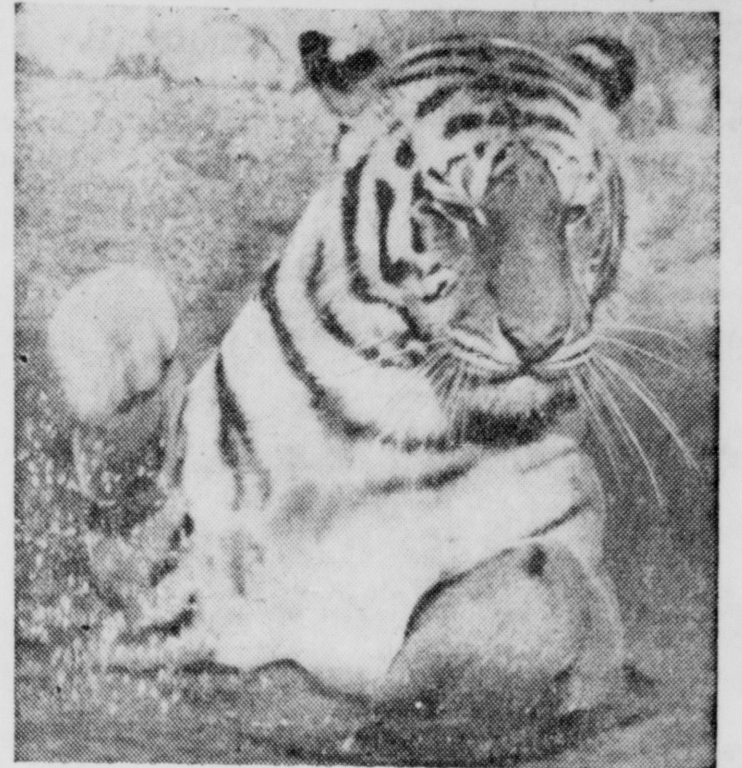

Murder charges against the girl were dismissed for insufficient evidence.

Matter of Fact

The sea lamprey, an eel-shaped, scaleless fish, was once considered a delicacy in Europe during the Middle Ages. Henry I of England is said to have died after stuffing himself with them. The sea lamprey is also a deadly parasite which attaches itself to other fish and sucks their blood. During the early thirties sea lampreys somehow invaded the Great Lakes and almost succeeded in wiping out the trout population until the federal government brought the pests under control.

Delegates Flock Back to New York For State Parley

By JAMES DEVLIN
Associated Press Writer
ATLANTIC CITY (AP)—New York Democrats flocked home today from the party's national convention to get ready for another convention next week. The state convocation will choose a Senate candidate.
U.S. atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, brother of the late president, has the backing of Mayor Robert F. Wagner of New York City and leaders of other populous areas of the state.
He is favored to win the nomination Tuesday in the New York City party gathering.
But the state convention may lack the harmony that surrounded the naming of the national ticket of President Johnson and Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota.
Rep. Samuel S. Stratton of upstate Amsterdam, seeking the Senate nomination, has promised to carry his fight against Kennedy to the convention floor.
Stratton contends it is "basically wrong for an outsider to run for the Senate from New York," a reference to Kennedy as a Virginia resident and Massachusetts voter.
The New Yorkers at this national convention whooped it up for President Johnson as he gave his acceptance speech at the closing session Thursday night.
Earlier, many attended a reception given for Mrs. John F. Kennedy, widow of the late president, by Mr. and Mrs. W. Averell Harriman.
Harriman, a backer of Robert Kennedy for the Senate, is undersecretary of state and a former governor of New York.

Maine Governor Says Camp Drum Disgrace, Unsafe

AUGUSTA, Maine, (AP)—The governor of Maine has complained that some buildings at Camp Drum, N.Y., "are truly a disgrace, and even unsafe in some instances."
Gov. John H. Reed said Thursday he wrote the Defense Department that facilities at the camp near Watertown, N.Y., are in deplorable condition.
Reed said in a letter to Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara that "the situation at Camp Drum would be chaotic under present conditions" if the base were to be used for a mobilization station in case of an emergency.
The sprawling camp is used as a training site for 90,000 National Guardsmen and Army reservists each summer, and is also designated as a mobilization point.
Reed said he found tracks for armor vehicles in poor condition, "dilapidated buildings that are truly a disgrace and even unsafe in some instances, and a general need for engineering repairs, particularly plumbing."
"I have also been advised," he wrote, "that messing equipment is in such a state of disrepair that it will be virtually impossible to use the mess halls another year for safety and sanitary reasons."

Not a Work of Necessity

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—Kentucky's Sunday closing law is putting a crimp on weddings in Lexington. It's not a question of getting a clergyman, it's the decorations. City officials, enforcing the blue law, have told florists their activity on the Sabbath must be confined to work of necessity, like delivering flowers for funerals.

Faces Life Term For Slaying of New York Couple

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Herbert L. Shockey, 30, faced a life sentence today for the murder of a vacationing New York couple in the desert near here last February.

A Superior Court Jury found Shockey, an ex-convict, guilty Thursday in the gun and knife slaying of Mr. and Mrs. John Bertella of Sherrill, N.Y. Bertella was 62, his wife was 64. Their bodies were found Feb. 24 near the Superstition Mountains, about 40 miles east of here.
The jury of nine women and three men decided on the life sentence. The prosecution had asked the death penalty. The trial lasted 15 days.
Shockey had pleaded innocent by reason of insanity.

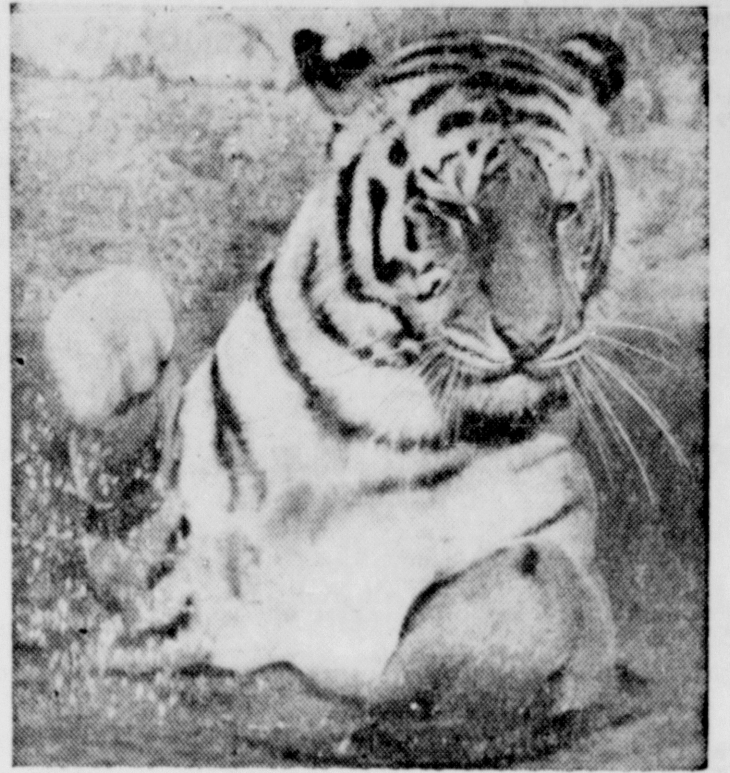

Shockey and Theresa Robichaud, 17, of Fresno, Calif., were arrested in Nevada a month after the Bertellas were slain. They were driving the camper truck the Bertellas had taken with them on vacation.

Murder charges against the girl were dismissed for insufficient evidence.

Shockey had served time in Leavenworth, Kan., prison for auto theft.
During Shockey's trial, another convict testified that he and Shockey were cellmates in the Maricopa County Jail and that Shockey had admitted the crimes. He said he coached Shockey on how to take psychiatric tests so that his sanity would be doubted.

LOWDOWN ON DIRT

Housewives will be understandably skeptical but the fact remains that we really don't know what dirt is.

To put it technically, science can't yet fully explain everything that's involved in the bonding of small particles to a substrate—what makes dirt stick.

Because this is an important subject (American women spend $4.5 billion a year on laundering and laundry equipment, not counting $800 million on wash water). Alan B. Draper, a professor of industrial engineering at Pennsylvania State University, is going to investigate the forces that hold tiny dirt particles to surfaces.

"A boulder can't stick to the ceiling," reasons Draper, "so what is the force which can hold a microscopic speck of the same material up there?"

The major fact in dirt is particle size. The smaller the particles, the harder they stick. Armed with a private grant of $11,600 and plenty of specially concocted synthetic dirt, Draper intends to find out just why.

Incidentally, since housewives will have to cope with dirt for some time to come, they may be interested in Draper's formula. According to it, the consistency of most household dirt in percentages is:

Sand (22 per cent); clay (16); fats and grease (13); hair, wool and animal fibers (12); cellulose and paper (12); iron (5); gypsum (5); lime (5); water (3); rubber (3); powdered skim milk (2); graphite (pencil lead) (1); tobacco smoke (1).

DRUG PRECAUTIONS

The more drugs there are available, the greater the need for safeguards against their misuse. This is axiomatic. It is heartening to see that the pressure to increase the precautions is being maintained.

Evidence of this was seen again at the annual meeting of the American Pharmaceutical Association. One idea given considerable attention was that the Food and Drug Administration should be authorized to place drugs in categories so that the public would have more guidance in their safe use.

Most legislation, as was noted, seeks to assure the purity and safety of drugs. The trouble is that even a pure drug which is safe when properly used may be dangerous when not used as intended. It might not be a bad idea to require that certain drugs be sold only by pharmacists, who could advise consumers as to their use.

This view was supported by Dr. Dale G. Friend, professor of medicine at the Harvard School of Medicine. He proposed a new category of "over-the-counter" drugs which, though they require no prescriptions, sometimes have had side effects. The intention would be that such drugs would not be sold except by a pharmacist who could caution buyers as to possible side effects. The idea may not appeal to drug manufacturers, but it merits thoughtful consideration.

LET THEM BE ARMED

It won't be long now until the school bells—figuratively, if not always literally—ring again. And millions of youngsters, some eagerly, some with lagging feet, will resume their educations after summers which one hopes were filled with events and adventures that will be long remembered.

In recent years, there has been a vast literature on the subject of American education. It has been compared, favorably and unfavorably, with that of other nations, notably England and Russia. Each of these differing systems, it seems, has its own particular goals and principles, and each has its advantages and disadvantages. But, here at home, there is strong and growing feeling that American education in all its levels too often leaves out an essential. That essential is the inculcation of a real knowledge of what free and representative government stands for and requires of its citizens and, with that, a realization of what this means in every

THE COMING VERBAL OVERKILL

ATLANTIC CITY—The word "liberal" here at the Democratic convention suddenly has no friends. Hubert Humphrey tried to dodge it the other day when they sought to pin it on him; he said something about meeting issues as they come up, in the context of changing times and without regard to labels.

Eric Goldman, the Princeton history professor and TV interrogator who is in charge of channeling new ideas and introducing new personalities into the White House, talks very much the same way. A pleasant, unassuming man who does not fit anyone's stereotype of the academic, Dr. Goldman expatiates on the need to forget the ideological confrontations of the nineteen thirties. The idea is that we are beyond "left" and "right"; we have reached what has been called "the end of ideology." The operative idea is to use brains to the end of solving particular problems, not to impose any particular philosophy on the community.

Whether this gets much beyond the ancient American idea of pragmatism as vulgarly expressed by that frontier character, Simon Suggs, who said "it's good to be shifty in a new country," is, as the politicians put it, "a good question." But the Goldman thesis goes along with the LBJ idea that pressures must be met with a broadly conceived "can-do" response, and that it is the duty of a chief executive to be "president of all the people." Goldman is trying to lift the curse of northeastern sectionalism from the job of lining up intellectuals for Johnson. He mentions names like those of Leonard Broom, sociologist at the University of Texas, and Frank Vandiver, historian on the Rice faculty in Houston. It is men like these who are tending to displace the Cambridge, Mass., Galbraiths and Schlesingers when it comes to battling up ideas destined for White House persual and possible adoption.

After listening to Eric Goldman, an interviewer who is himself tired of the old ideological battles is inclined to think well of the future under four or eight more years of Lyndon Johnson. At least there could be a cessation of the same old guff. The trouble, however, is that Dr. Goldman, as a guff killer, can't seem to get the word to those in charge of the actual political campaign. For it is obvious that we are in for a horrible autumnal season of drearily reiterative name-calling. The words about Barry Goldwater, as they have come from the mouths of the politicians at the convention, are all from the same cookie—kookie! "Trigger-happy." He is—you've guessed it again—"irresponsible." He would risk you've heard it before—"nuclear death and destruction." He leads—ho, hum—a "small band of extremists" who have used "totalitarian methods" to seize the Republican Party.

The tactic of drilling this sort of stuff into the ears of everybody in sight has actually fallen on some very unresponsive ears among the Atlantic City delegates. Governor Richard Hughes of New Jersey set the name-calling refrain in motion in his role of welcome. Senator John Pastore of Rhode Island continued it as a keynote; House Speaker John McCormack went to town with it as permanent chairman. Continued for the whole sixty days before the polls open in November, the verbal overkill about "extremism" and "trigger happiness" and "irresponsibility" will pound upon human flesh that has become totally catatonic. The ancient Greeks once turned against the wise aristides because they became tired of hearing him called "the just." If the Democratic orators aren't careful, the modern Americans will work a switch on this by turning against the LBJ party because they are tired of hearing Republicans called "trigger happy." Enough is enough.

If I were Dr. Eric Goldman, I would try to get the notion across to the White House that new ideas in campaigning are just as necessary as new ideas in problem-solving. The American people, today, are bothered by lots of things of a quite specific nature. They want to keep some of their money, and without denying anyone his rights, they want to choose their own circumstances within reason. Some problems are specific and real, the politicians who hope to win by drip-drip-drip of name-calling may be risking oblivion in November. They should ponder a novelistic fable called "Erik Dorn," written by Ben Hecht way back in the twenties. "Erik Dorn" was about a man who came to suffer from an inability to attach any meaning to words he had heard too often. He was a victim of verbal overkill. Leave Contact Lens Fitting To Qualified Specialist

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—I have heard that contact lenses could cause blindness and cancer. Is it true? When a person sees well when wearing contacts, what causes blurred vision when the lenses are removed and glasses which are correctly prescribed are put on?

A—To attribute cancer to contact lenses is a vicious rumor of the type which, although completely false, is hard to stamp out once it gets started. When properly used, contact lenses will not cause blindness. But careless or improper use may cause scratching or infection of the cornea and lead to some decrease in vision.

When contact lenses have been worn for several hours there is usually some blurring when they are removed. This is due to the pressure of the lenses on the cornea but it should clear up in about 15 minutes. The fitting of contact lenses is not a simple matter like buying a new hat. It should be done only by a qualified eye specialist.

Q—What would be the effect of prolonged exposure to carbon tetrachloride fumes or having this chemical on your hands while removing spots from clothes?

A—Carbon tetrachloride is a powerful poison and should never be used indoors except by an open window. In persons who have been drinking any alcoholic beverage, the effect of this poison is much quicker and more severe. Such symptoms as headache, vomiting, diarrhea and pain in the abdomen may occur after an exposure takes place in an enclosed space. Absorption of carbon tetrachloride can also occur through the skin but this is much slower and hence less of a hazard. In persons who have had a heavy exposure to the fumes or who have accidentally drunk this poison, severe damage to the kidneys and liver may occur. The best treatment is prevention. Anyone who develops acute carbon tetrachloride poisoning should be treated in a hospital until all danger of a delayed reaction has passed.

Please send your questions and comments to Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D., in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman. While Dr. Brandstadt cannot answer individual letters he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

"By George, I Think We've Found One!"

Washington News

BY BRUCE BLOSSAT

Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
ATLANTIC CITY—(NEA)—Nominated in his own right,

President Johnson can flex his muscles a good deal more freely than before.

But his party power will be far from unlimited, even if he should win a handsome election victory.

It is always a great temptation for the man in the White House to try to place his heavy personal imprint on his party across the nation. Yet when effort has been made, it is usually failed dismally.

Franklin D. Roosevelt tried it and ultimately gave it up as a bad job. The late John F. Kennedy, a close reader of history, declined to undertake it, believing it would fail even with a massive investment of his own time.

THERE IS NO FIRM EVIDENCE that Johnson now plans any such ambitious enterprise as the fully accredited commander of the Democratic party.

Understandably, he is engaged increasingly in placing loyal and trusted associates in strategic spots around the country. But the President is said by one Washington aide to have no thought that these trusted helpers could or should assume party control in his name.

These presidential agents are meant to carry clearly understood signals from Johnson to many key people in their states—and to serve similarly as a reasonably direct communication channel to the White House.

As friends of the President, they are automatically men of influence. But mostly they are not wielders of power, nor are they likely to be.

IN THE VIEW OF AN OLD

JOHNSON COMRADE, the President would have chosen quite different men had he been bent upon a quest for control.

For instance, New York's new national committeeman, lawyer Edwin Weissel, is a very green politician. So, relatively, is Lloyd Hand, young California businessman serving as Johnson agent in that state.

At Atlantic City, Hand was invited to help referee a dispute between regular California Democrats and citizens' groups. He begged off, pleading other duty unrelated to California's problems.

THOUGH WEISSEL IS INDEED the President's New York agent, he got the national committeeman's job in part because that post has been unimportant in New York Democratic politics for some time. His predecessor in the job, Carmine De Sapio, has been virtually powerless for the past five years.

Weissel also is a compromise acceptable to Mayor Robert Wagner and his potential power rival, Attorney General Robert Kennedy, new U.S. senatorial entry. Weissel may help take some of the steam out of this rivalry right at the outset of Kennedy's New York adventure.

It is hoped, too, that Weissel, working in Johnson's name, may prevent campaign funds from flowing overwhelmingly to the strong Kennedy magnet. Such a heavy flow might endanger the President's own New York campaign, not to mention those of lesser candidates.

AGAIN, HOWEVER, MEN of the Weissel breed are not to be regarded as the advance guard in a Johnson effort to wield the political sceptre in countless states North and South.

The President reportedly feels that true power resides with Democratic governors, senators, Robins Memorial game.

Democratic Convention Is Seen Far From Reality

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

ATLANTIC CITY—As one sat listening to the emotional memorials for a few departed statesmen of recent years, so solemnly presented as a part of the day's session of the Democratic National Convention, there came to mind sad thoughts about some Americans who seem to have been forgotten on this all-important occasion. For the omitted memorial concerns those 275 American boys who have died in the conflict in Viet Nam since 1961.

What shall be said to the mothers and fathers, the sisters and brothers, the wives and children of the brave soldiers who gave their lives to a cause no body here has thought to honor even momentarily with silent prayer? Maybe American sacrifices in the war in Viet Nam have never been particularly related in the public mind to our own safety. Indeed, there are many people who think the loss of lives in Viet Nam has in truth been in vain.

But even as the convention delegates enjoyed their carnival here on the convention floor, waving banners and tooting the horns and otherwise manifesting their exuberant spirits, so by contrast, in the homes of those 275 American soldiers, there must have been the very opposite feeling—a questioning as to how many parents of other young men now in uniform may someday suffer the same anguish and heartbreak. For there are at least 17,000 American troops in Viet Nam today.

Unlike most of the issues so flamboyantly proclaimed in campaign phrases, the problem of what is or is not a sensible foreign policy touches closely the homes of millions of American citizens with sons of draft age.

This, however, is typical of political strategy. The boast in high-sounding speeches always is that peace will be preserved and war avoided, prosperity will be maintained and a depression averted. The exhortation is that the candidates named here should be accepted as men not only of great wisdom but of unbounded experience in the handling of national and international questions.

Both President Johnson and Sen. Humphrey are earnest, able and dedicated men who would like to serve their country effectively. So also are Sen. Goldwater and Rep. Miller, the nominees of the Republican ticket. All politicians claim these virtues. The test is whether the candidates, upon election to office, yield to the temptations of expediency because votes may be at stake again. Few politicians are willing to go down fighting for a cause when the principle is unpalatable, though sound, if by chance votes in the next election may be imperiled. Ambition too often outweighs all else.

The platform and the acceptance speeches presented here make promises of economic betterment and of benefits for all citizens, including those who happen to be earning low incomes or are among the unemployed. But what do these national and international questions saturated by tens of thousands of words of publicity, really mean to the citizens and how will they affect the lives of the ordinary voters?

To overcome fears and doubts and apprehensions, public speakers today use the same devices that have won elections time and again. Utopia is promised, and when adverse tides start running, the opposition is, of course, blamed.

The two national political conventions are over. It has been demonstrated here, as many times before, that a President in office can bring about his own nomination for a succeeding term because he has behind him hundreds of thousands of officeholders and direct beneficiaries of public funds. Lately he has assumed the added prerogative of choosing the Vice-President—the man who may become President if a vacancy occurs in the highest office. In effect, one man now picks a possible future President of the United States, and too often he does so with an eye to political advantages for himself. This tactic is received, nevertheless, with outbursts of prolonged applause in the convention hall and maybe in millions of homes, where the television broadcasts are too much concerned with the picture story to reveal the penetrating truths underneath it all.

The main pitch of this convention was the domestic issues, and the chief argument expressed was that the Republicans are old-fashioned and that thrift is obsolete. Government is expected to go on spending public funds to win votes, even as the budget remains unbalanced and the value of the dollar continues its perilous course downward.

Conventions, unfortunately, provide few answers to public questions. Nor do they point the way to solutions of the complex problems of modern life. Now that both conventions have been held, the campaign, with its misleading dialogue, is about to begin—and in November the question will be which party has done the better job of "brainwashing" the electorate. Rome, Italy.—It is 6 p. m. The Eternal City is ablaze with copper shafts of light. The Cavalieri Hilton, high on a western hill, looks down on the city and across it to the blue Alban Hills, where Frascati and Gondofo appear like pockets of snow.

This, of all cities, has always been beautiful, always haughty, always impossible. Everyone sees Rome, but Rome sees no one because it is too busy preening itself. The Caesars thought that all roads led to Rome, but the Italian cab drivers know that sometimes the roads lead nowhere.

The bells of many churches toll the angels. Few of the 2,000,000 citizens hear it. This is a place of small cars at high speed; of Communist Party Headquarters in the blue shadow of a steep cross; of smart shopgirls who make their own clothes; of young men in tight slacks and long hair who, having heard of sex, forgot everything else; of doormen who look like admirals and admirals who look like doormen; of priests in black cassocks and flat broad-brimmed hats; of spires and old stucco buildings and sagging shutters and sparkling fountains; a city of narrow alleys and short tempers; where the green of the Borghese Gardens contrasts with the breast-like dome of St. Peter's, which suckles the soul of the Catholic world.

There is a water clock in the park which told time for 300 years, until a little boy tossed a rock through it. The white, columned monument to Victor Emmanuel II who unified Italy, is 500-feet from the Palazzo Venezia, where Mussolini divided the country. Caesar Augustus, who ordered a census of the Jews when Christ was born, reposes in a tomb across the street from Alfredo's, where Caesar salad is a specialty.

Who can compare the somber light inside St. John Lateran with the bright beams at the sidewalk cafe of Doney, where Roma di notte parades to be seen? The city is a Pandora's box of paradoxes: as lazed as a roue waiting in the shadows, as innocent as an infant in a crib, as old as Romulus, as young and full of anticipation as a convent girl on her first date; as ugly as sudden death and as pretty as the Trevi fountain; the city is devoted to God when it is frightened and to Bacchus when it is confident.

Once, the music of Aida was heard here; now the radios blare Never on Sunday. An automobile in Rome consists of an accelerator, a horn, and a faceless driver who left his mind in bed. Queues of people wait patiently beneath the main altar of St. Peter's.

When nets drag the river bottom, the crafty carp burrows into the mud.

LOWDOWN ON DIRT

Housewives will be understandably skeptical but the fact remains that we really don't know what dirt is.

To put it technically, science can't yet fully explain everything that's involved in the bonding of small particles to a substrate—what makes dirt stick.

Because this is an important subject (American women spend $4.5 billion a year on laundering and laundry equipment, not counting $800 million on wash water), Alan B. Draper, a professor of industrial engineering at Pennsylvania State University, is going to investigate the forces that hold tiny dirt particles to surfaces.

"A boulder can't stick to the ceiling," reasons Draper, "so what is the force which can hold a microscopic speck of the same material up there?"

The major fact in dirt is particle size. The smaller the particles, the harder they stick. Armed with a private grant of $11,600 and plenty of specially concocted synthetic dirt, Draper intends to find out just why.

Incidentally, since housewives will have to cope with dirt for some time to come, they may be interested in Draper's formula. According to it, the consistency of most household dirt in percentages is:

Sand (22 per cent); clay (16); fats and grease (13); hair, wool and animal fibers (12); cellulose and paper (12); iron (5); gypsum (5); lime (5); water (3); rubber (3); powdered skim milk (2); graphite (pencil lead) (1); tobacco smoke (1).

DRUG PRECAUTIONS

The more drugs there are available, the greater the need for safeguards against their misuse. This is axiomatic. It is heartening to see that the pressure to increase the precautions is being maintained.

Evidence of this was seen again at the annual meeting of the American Pharmaceutical Association. One idea given considerable attention was that the Food and Drug Administration should be authorized to place drugs in categories so that the public would have more guidance in their safe use.

Most legislation, as was noted, seeks to assure the purity and safety of drugs. The trouble is that even a pure drug which is safe when properly used may be dangerous when not used as intended. It might not be a bad idea to require that certain drugs be sold only by pharmacists, who could advise consumers as to their use.

This view was supported by Dr. Dale G. Friend, professor of medicine at the Harvard School of Medicine. He proposed a new category of "over-the-counter" drugs which, though they require no prescriptions, sometimes have had side effects. The intention would be that such drugs would not be sold except by a pharmacist who could caution buyers as to possible side effects. The idea may not appeal to drug manufacturers, but it merits thoughtful consideration.

LET THEM BE ARMED

It won't be long now until the school bells—figuratively, if not always literally—ring again. And millions of youngsters, some eagerly, some with lagging feet, will resume their educations after summers which one hopes were filled with events and adventures that will be long remembered.

In recent years, there has been a vast literature on the subject of American education. It has been compared, favorably and unfavorably, with that of other nations, notably England and Russia. Each of these differing systems, it seems, has its own particular goals and principles, and each has its advantages and disadvantages. But, here at home, there is strong and growing feeling that American education in all its levels too often leaves out an essential. That essential is the inculcation of a real knowledge of what free and representative government stands for and requires of its citizens and, with that, a realization of what this means in every

THE COMING VERBAL OVERKILL

ATLANTIC CITY—The word "liberal" here at the Democratic convention suddenly has no friends. Hubert Humphrey tried to dodge it the other day when they sought to pin it on him; he said something about meeting issues as they come up, in the context of changing times and without regard to labels.

Eric Goldman, the Princeton history professor and TV interrogator who is in charge of channeling new ideas and introducing new personalities into the White House, talks very much the same way. A pleasant, undogmatic, unassuming man who does not fit anyone's stereotype of the academic, Dr. Goldman expatiates on the need to forget the ideological confrontations of the nineteen thirties. The idea is that we are beyond "left" and "right"; we have reached what has been called "the end of ideology." The operative idea is to use brains to the end of solving particular problems, not to impose any particular philosophy on the community.

Whether this gets much beyond the ancient American idea of pragmatism as vulgarly expressed by that frontier character, Simon Suggs, who said "it's good to be shifty in a new country," is, as the politicians put it, "a good question." But the Goldman thesis goes along with the LBJ idea that pressures must be met with a broadly conceived "can-do" response, and that it is the duty of a chief executive to be "president of all the people." Goldman is trying to lift the curse of northeastern sectionalism from the job of lining up intellectuals for Johnson. He mentions names like those of Leonard Broom, sociologist at the University of Texas, and Frank Vandiver, historian on the Rice faculty in Houston. It is men like these who are tending to displace the Cambridge, Mass., Galbraiths and Schlesingers when it comes to battling up ideas destined for White House perusal and possible adoption.

After listening to Eric Goldman, an interviewer who is himself tired of the old ideological battles is inclined to think well of the future under four or eight more years of Lyndon Johnson. At least there could be a cessation of the same old guff. The trouble, however, is that Dr. Goldman, as a guff killer, can't seem to get the word to those in charge of the actual political campaign. For it is obvious that we are in for a horrible autumn season of drearily reiterative name-calling. The words about Barry Goldwater, as they have come from the mouths of the politicians at the convention, are all from the same cookie—kookie?—cutter. Barry is—you've guessed it—"trigger-happy." He is—you've guessed it again—"irresponsible." He would risk—you've heard it before—"nuclear death and destruction." He leads—ho, hum—"a small band of extremists" who have used "totalitarian methods" to seize the Republican Party.

The tactic of drilling this sort of stuff into the ears of everybody in sight has actually fallen on some very unresponsive ears among the Atlantic City delegates. Governor Richard Hughes of New Jersey set the name-calling refrain in motion in his role of welcomer; Senator John Pastore of Rhode Island continued it as a key-note; House Speaker John McCormack went to town with it as permanent chairman. Continued for the whole sixty days before the polls open in November, the verbal overkill about "extremism" and "trigger happiness" and "irresponsibility" will pound upon human flesh that has become totally catatonic. The ancient Greeks once turned against the wise aristides because they became tired of hearing him called "the just." If the Democratic orators aren't careful, the modern Americans will work a switch on this by turning against the LBJ party because they are tired of hearing Republicans called "trigger happy." Enough is enough.

If I were Dr. Eric Goldman, I would try to get the notion across to the White House that new ideas in campaigning are just as necessary as new ideas in problem-solving. The American people, today, are bothered by lots of things of a quite specific nature. They want to keep some of their money, and, without denying anyone his rights, they want to choose their own circumstances within reason. Some problems are specific and real, the politicians who hope to win by a drip-drip of name-calling may be risking oblivion in November. They should ponder a novelistic fable called "Erik Dorn," written by Ben Hecht way back in the twenties. "Erik Dorn" was about a man who came to suffer from an inability to attach any meaning to words he had heard too often. He was a victim of verbal overkill.

Leave Contact Lens Fitting To Qualified Specialist

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—I have heard that contact lenses could cause blindness and cancer. Is it true? When a person sees well when wearing contacts, what causes blurred vision when the lenses are removed and glasses which are correctly prescribed are put on?

A—To attribute cancer to contact lenses is a vicious rumor of the type which, although completely false, is hard to stamp out once it gets started. When properly used, contact lenses will not cause blindness. But careless or improper use may cause scratching or infection of the cornea and lead to some decrease in vision.

When contact lenses have been worn for several hours there is usually some blurring when they are removed. This is due to the pressure of the lenses on the cornea but it should clear up in about 15 minutes. The fitting of contact lenses is not a simple matter like buying a new hat. It should be done only by a qualified eye specialist.

Q—What would be the effect of prolonged exposure to carbon tetrachloride fumes or having this chemical on your hands while removing spots from clothes?

A—Carbon tetrachloride is a powerful poison and should never be used indoors except by an open window. In persons who have been drinking any alcoholic beverage, the effect of this poison is much quicker and more severe. Such symptoms as headache, vomiting, diarrhea and pain in the abdomen may occur after an exposure takes place in an enclosed space.

Absorption of carbon tetrachloride can also occur through the skin but this is much slower and hence less of a hazard. In persons who have had a heavy exposure to the fumes or who have accidentally drunk this poison, severe damage to the kidneys and liver may occur. The best treatment is prevention. Anyone who develops acute carbon tetrachloride poisoning should be treated in a hospital until all danger of a delayed reaction has passed.

ATLANTIC CITY—(NEA)—

Nominated in his own right,

President Johnson can flex his muscles a good deal more freely than before.

But his party power will be far from unlimited, even if he should win a handsome election victory.

It is always a great temptation for the man in the White House to try to place his heavy personal imprint on his party across the nation. Yet when the effort has been made, it is usually failed miserably.

Franklin D. Roosevelt tried it and ultimately gave it up as a bad job. The late John F. Kennedy, a close reader of history, declined to undertake it, believing it would fail even with a massive investment of his own time.

THERE IS NO FIRM EVIDENCE that Johnson now plans any such ambitious enterprise as the fully accredited commander of the Democratic party.

Understandably, he is engaged increasingly in placing loyal and trusted associates in strategic spots around the country. But the President is said by one Washington aide to have no thought that these trusted helpers could or should assume party control in his name.

These presidential agents are meant to carry clearly understood signals from Johnson to many key people in their states—and to serve similarly as a reasonably direct communication channel to the White House.

As friends of the President, they are automatically men of influence. But mostly they are not wielders of power, nor are they likely to be.

IN THE VIEW OF AN OLD

the President would have chosen quite different men had he been bent upon a quest for control.

For instance, New York's new national committeeman, lawyer Edwin Weiss, is a very green politician. So, relatively, is Lloyd Hand, young California businessman serving as Johnson agent in that state.

At Atlantic City, Hand was invited to help referee a dispute between regular California Democrats and citizens' groups. He begged off, pleading other duty unrelated to California's problems.

THOUGH WEISS IS INDEED the President's New York agent, he got the national committeeman's job in part because that post has been unimportant in New York Democratic politics for some time. His predecessor in the job, Carmine De Sapio, has been virtually powerless for the past five years.

Weiss also is a compromise acceptable to Mayor Robert Wagner and his potential power rival, Attorney General Robert Kennedy, new U.S. senatorial entry. Weiss may help take some of the steam out of this rivalry right at the outset of Kennedy's New York adventure.

It is hoped, too, that Weiss, working in Johnson's name, may prevent campaigning funds from flowing overwhelmingly to the strong Kennedy magnet. Such a heavy flow might endanger the President's own New York campaign, not to mention those of lesser candidates.

AGAIN, HOWEVER, MEN of the Weiss breed are not to be regarded as the advance guard in a Johnson effort to wield the political sceptre in countless states North and South.

The President reportedly feels that true power resides with Democratic governors, senators, congressmen, big city mayors. With rare exception, they have both the prestige and the pre-requisites of authority. He is pictured as accepting this circumstance entirely.

The judgment of one seasoned, sympathetic assistant is that Johnson has no need to alter it. Inevitably, as long as he is President, he can expect to enjoy the allegiance of responsible party regulars, however they choose to concentrate or diffuse political power within their state boundaries.

A bid for broad presidential control is thus as unnecessary as it is impractical.

Democratic Convention Is Seen Far From Reality

By DAVID LAWRENCE

ATLANTIC CITY—As one sat listening to the emotional memorials for a few departed statesmen of recent years, so solemnly presented as a part of the last day's session of the Democratic National Convention, there came to mind sad thoughts about some Americans who seem to have been forgotten on this all-important occasion. For the omitted memorial concerns those 275 American boys who have died in the conflict in Viet Nam since 1961.

What shall be said to the mothers and fathers, the sisters and brothers, the wives and children of the brave soldiers who gave their lives to a cause nobody here has thought to honor even momentarily with silent prayer? Maybe American sacrifices in the war in Viet Nam have never been particularly related in the public mind to our own safety. Indeed, there are many people who think the loss of lives in Viet Nam has in truth been in vain.

But even as the convention delegates enjoyed their carnival here on the convention floor, waving banners and tooting horns and otherwise manifesting their exuberant spirits, so by contrast, in the homes of those 275 American soldiers, there must have been the very opposite feeling—a questioning as to how many parents of other young men now in uniform someday suffer the same anguish and heartbreak. For there are at least 17,000 American troops in Viet Nam today.

Unlike most of the issues so flamboyantly proclaimed in campaign phrases, the problem of what is or is not a sensible foreign policy touches closely the homes of millions of American citizens with sons of draft age.

This, however, is typical of political strategy. The boast in high-sounding speeches always is that peace will be preserved and war avoided, prosperity will be maintained and a depression averted. The exhortation is that the candidates named here should be accepted as men not only of great wisdom but of unbounded experience in the handling of national and international questions.

Both President Johnson and Sen. Humphrey are earnest, able and dedicated men who would like to serve their country effectively. So also are Sen. Goldwater and Rep. Miller, the nominees of the Republican ticket. All politicians claim these virtues. The test is whether the candidates, upon election to office, yield to the temptations of expediency because votes may be at stake again. Few politicians are willing to go down fighting for a cause when the principle is unpalatable, though sound, if by chance votes in the next election may be imperiled. Ambition too often outweighs all else.

Board Hears 24 Witnesses In Woodstock Police Inquiry

Twenty four persons testified in the closed inquiry on alleged police brutality in Woodstock conducted by the Woodstock Town Board Thursday at Town Hall.

Mrs. Marjorie Harder, town clerk who assisted in registering witnesses, said 24 persons were heard in afternoon and night sessions.

All six constables who were on duty on July 12 when alleged police brutality occurred on the Village Green were interrogated by the board. They included Chief Constable Clarence (Clancy) Snyder, and Constable Thomas O'Brien, John Melia, Warren Graver, Robert Reynolds and Paul Senecal.

Attorney Gerald Wapner of Woodstock and New York City

appeared for Jerry Siegel, one of the two youths arrested during the fracas on the Village Green on July 12. Siegel was not present at the inquiry. Wapner also represented another youth whose name was not available.

The inquiry which was closed to the public and press was conducted by the full board with Supervisor Abram F. Molyneux presiding. Also present were Councilmen Gottlob Wagner and William West Jr., and Justices of the Peace Charles A. Farley and Rudi Baumgarten.

The proceedings were tape recorded.

Supervisor Molyneux had announced prior to the hearing that a full report on the board's findings would be made public in the near future.

Board Members Talk Finances With Dr. Allen

Three new members of the Ontario Central Schools District Board of Education recently attended the Introductory Conference for new board members in Albany. The group included Richard O. Langham, Woodstock; Sherman Masten, West Hurley; and Herbert Epstein, Poughkeepsie.

Epstein's reaction to the conference was the following statement: "I believe it would be of interest to our board and the taxpayers of this district that we took the opportunity to speak with State Education Commissioner Allen directly on two matters of financial concern."

"The questions asked and the answers given by Dr. Allen were, in essence, as follows," said Epstein:

1) In its last session, the state legislature passed a law providing a mandatory increase of salaries to principals, etc., the same to be correlated with increases granted teaching personnel.

Allen's Answers

Asked to comment on the legislative action, Dr. Allen said: "It seems that certain 'commitments' were made (politically) which could not be bypassed. The measure did not and does not have the endorsement of the Department. Efforts will be made to recind this law. It is recommended that representation be made to the New York State Board of Education to actively seek a reversal."

Question posed to Dr. Allen: "You are doubtless aware of the difficulties we have had specifically at Ontario and in so many other school districts in the matter of budget and bond issues. It is obvious that the taxpayers throughout the state seek relief from further tax rises on real estate. What position is the Department taking on the matter?"

Nixes Sales Tax

Answer—It appears that the next legislature is prepared to increase allotments of state aid. It is necessary that taxpayers and all concerned contact their respective representatives and apprise them of their sentiments.

Question—But, Dr. Allen, is there anything more fundamental being done?

Answer—I personally do not think much of the sales tax idea. It would be too cumbersome. "Our personal feelings, after listening to the Commissioner were that if any alternate to state aid is to take root, it would be necessary for the public to scream loud and clear, and the sooner the better," Epstein concluded.

Lake George to Give Out Behavior Code

LAKE GEORGE, N.Y. (AP)—Youthful visitors to Lake George over the Labor Day weekend—who have been known to create a considerable furor—won't have any excuse for not behaving this year.

The Young Adult League of Lake George has prepared more than 5,000 copies of a "Code of Conduct" to be distributed throughout the resort area before the weekend. The code is based on the proposal that young people's conduct in a resort town should be the same as their conduct in their home town. Three years ago, more than 1,000 young people, many of them college students, brawled among themselves, threw beer cans, shouted obscenities at police and jammed the town's streets.

Board Hears 24 Witnesses In Woodstock Police Inquiry

Twenty four persons testified in the closed inquiry on alleged police brutality in Woodstock conducted by the Woodstock Town Board Thursday at Town Hall.

Mrs. Marjorie Harder, town clerk who assisted in registering witnesses, said 24 persons were heard in afternoon and night sessions.

All six constables who were on duty on July 12 when alleged police brutality occurred on the Village Green were interrogated by the board. They included Chief Constable Clarence (Clancy) Snyder, and Constables Thomas O'Brien, John Melia, Warren Graver, Robert Reynolds and Paul Senecal.

Attorney Gerald Wagner of Woodstock and New York City

appeared for Jerry Siegel, one of the two youths arrested during the fracas on the Village Green on July 12. Siegel was not present at the inquiry. Wagner also represented another youth whose name was not available.

The inquiry which was closed to the public and press was conducted by the full board with Supervisor Abram F. Molyneux presiding. Also present were Councilmen Gottlob Wagner and William West Jr., and Justices of the Peace Charles A. Farley and Rudi Baumgarten.

The proceedings were tape recorded. Supervisor Molyneux had announced prior to the hearing that a full report on the board's findings would be made public in the near future.

Board Members Talk Finances With Dr. Allen

Three new members of the Ontario Central Schools District Board of Education recently attended the Introductory Conference for new board members in Albany. The group included Richard O. Langham, Woodstock; Sherman Masten, West Hurley; and Herbert Epstein, Locustville.

Epstein's reaction to the conference was the following statement: "I believe it would be of interest to our board and the taxpayers of this district that we took the opportunity to speak with State Education Commissioner Allen directly on two matters of financial concern."

"The questions asked and the answers given by Dr. Allen were, in essence, as follows," said Epstein:

1) In its last session, the state legislature passed a law providing a mandatory increase of salaries to principals, etc., the same to be correlated with increases granted teaching personnel.

Allen's Answers Asked to comment on the legislative action, Dr. Allen said: "It seems that certain 'commitments' were made (politically) which could not be bypassed. The measure did not and does not have the endorsement of the Department. Efforts will be made to recind this law. It is recommended that representation be made to the New York State Board of Education to actively seek a reversal."

Question posed to Dr. Allen: "You are doubtless aware of the difficulties we have had specifically at Ontario and in so many other school districts in the matter of budget and bond issues. It is obvious that the taxpayers throughout the state seek relief from further tax rises on real estate. What position is the Department taking on the matter?"

Answer—It appears that the next legislature is prepared to increase allotments of state aid. It is necessary that taxpayers and all concerned contact their respective representatives and apprise them of their sentiments. Question—But, Dr. Allen, is there anything more fundamental being done?

Answer—I personally do not think much of the sales tax idea. It would be too cumbersome. "Our personal feelings, after listening to the Commissioner were that if any alternate to state aid is to take root, it would be necessary for the public to scream loud and clear, and the sooner the better," Epstein concluded.

Klitgaard Exhibit At Parnassus Square

SWEETIE PIE

By Nadine Seltzer

"Mom had it put in! She got tired of being a golf widow!"

Do You Remember by Sophie Miller

Sometime ago I quoted from the excellent material compiled by Clayton R. Smith on water power development in this section. Mr. Smith had gathered this information around 1925. I mentioned how the Village of Ellenville received their power. In 1903 a contract was made with the Kingston Gas and Electric Co. to supply them with current at 33,000 volts. This was one of the first high tension transmission lines in the country. The line was built by the Honk Falls Power Co. and current was turned on Dec. 8, 1904, just some 60 years ago.

Mr. Smith further explained that when New York City was building its new water supply system in the Esopus Watershed, the aqueduct passed through High Falls. In order to cross the Rondout Creek a siphon had to be constructed. This entailed a large amount of power. The Honk Falls Power Co. obtained the contract to supply this power. Their plant at Honk Falls was not large enough to supply this additional load, so they purchased the water power site at High Falls. A plant was built here and completed and put into service on Dec. 8, 1910. It will be noted that Dec. 8 was the starting date for each of these projects, this is just a coincidence, he added.

Now in 1964 when we depend on so many of our necessities for electricity, it is difficult to believe that not so many years ago, it was only a dream for this section. He further writes that after this plant was built a line was built to supply surplus current to the Central Hudson Gas and Electric Co. and, in case of low water, to buy current from this source to supply Kingston and other consumers.

I do not know if they are having any difficulty in 1964 because of no rain, but Mr. Smith explains that in those early years, the load in Kingston grew to such an extent that in periods of low water the amount of energy purchased became so great that the Honk Falls Power Co. decided to build a stand-by plant. One of the old buildings of the Consolidated Rosendale Cement Co. at Eddyville was purchased and remodeled. Two 1,000 h.p. diesel oil engines were installed with direct connected generators. This plant was put into operation in the summer of 1920.

Mr. Smith summed it up in 1925 thus: The Rondout Valley today (1925) has changed a great deal from what it was during the last century. The transportation of coal by canal is gone, and the manufacture of cement has ceased. The villages have revived from the slump which followed the cessation of these industries. The valley is becoming each season more important for summer resorts. The farms are extensive and very productive. There are two railroads now serving the valley; the Wallkill Valley from Rosendale to Kingston and the Ontario and Western from Ellenville through the valley to Kingston. This is the way things were in our valley in 1925.

I received a nice card from Mrs. Vera H. Wagner, president of the Theodore Burr Covered Bridge Society of Pennsylvania, Inc., 235 Boas Street, Harrisburg, Pa. She has visited our Perrine Bridge and photographed it, and writes: "If such bridges were only allowed to stand in Pennsylvania we would be very happy..." She told about the various bridges in her county which were lost because local groups did not make effort enough to save and preserve them. She suggests that perhaps the Rockefeller Foundation may be interested to help save and preserve our Perrine Bridge.

Their plant at Honk Falls was not large enough to supply this additional load, so they purchased the water power site at High Falls. A plant was built here and completed and put into service on Dec. 8, 1910. It will be noted that Dec. 8 was the starting date for each of these projects, this is just a coincidence, he added.

Now in 1964 when we depend on so many of our necessities for electricity, it is difficult to believe that not so many years ago, it was only a dream for this section. He further writes that after this plant was built a line was built to supply surplus current to the Central Hudson Gas and Electric Co. and, in case of low water, to buy current from this source to supply Kingston and other consumers.

I do not know if they are having any difficulty in 1964 because of no rain, but Mr. Smith explains that in those early years, the load in Kingston grew to such an extent that in periods of low water the amount of energy purchased became so great that the Honk Falls Power Co. decided to build a stand-by plant. One of the old buildings of the Consolidated Rosendale Cement Co. at Eddyville was purchased and remodeled. Two 1,000 h.p. diesel oil engines were installed with direct connected generators. This plant was put into operation in the summer of 1920. Mr. Smith summed it up in 1925 thus: The Rondout Valley today (1925) has changed a great deal from what it was during the last century. The transportation of coal by canal is gone, and the manufacture of cement has ceased. The villages have revived from the slump which followed the cessation of these industries. The valley is becoming each season more important for summer resorts. The farms are extensive and very productive. There are two railroads now serving the valley; the Wallkill Valley from Rosendale to Kingston and the Ontario and Western from Ellenville through the valley to Kingston. This is the way things were in our valley in 1925.

I received a nice card from Mrs. Vera H. Wagner, president of the Theodore Burr Covered Bridge Society of Pennsylvania, Inc., 235 Boas Street, Harrisburg, Pa. She has visited our Perrine Bridge and photographed it, and writes: "If such bridges were only allowed to stand in Pennsylvania we would be very happy..." She told about the various bridges in her county which were lost because local groups did not make effort enough to save and preserve them. She suggests that perhaps the Rockefeller Foundation may be interested to help save and preserve our Perrine Bridge.

Today in History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Friday, Aug. 28, the 241st day of 1964. There are 125 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1944, advancing American troops reached Chateau Thierry, beginning the re-conquest of a continent the Nazis boasted they had turned into a fortress. It was the same battlefield where their fathers had fought in World War I.

On this date: In 1913, the Palace of Peace, a gift of Andrew Carnegie, was dedicated at the Hague.

In 1922, the first Walker Cup international golf match was held at Southampton, N.Y.

In 1926, U.S. Marines landed at Bluefields, Nicaragua, where they had been much of the time from 1912 to 1925, remaining again until 1933.

In 1940, German and Italian planes attacked the Egyptian city of Port Said.

In 1946, Moscow announced that food rationing would continue in Russia into 1947.

Ten years ago — A British Labor party delegation including former Prime Minister Clement Attlee, toured Red Chinese cities on its return home by way of Hong Kong.

Five years ago — President Dwight D. Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan flew to Scotland for an overnight visit with Queen Elizabeth and her family at Balmoral Castle.

One year ago — Some 200,000 Negroes and whites held a civil rights rally in Washington, D.C.

Magellan named Tierra del Fuego ("Land of Fire") for the Indian bonfires burning along the coast day and night.

$270.00 Original estimate

$149.32 Central Hudson's New Rate!

"Electric House Heating is great!"
say Joan and Robert Anderson.

The Anderson's home in New Windsor is heated electrically, and they are thoroughly delighted with the cleanliness, the convenience and above all, the comfort of electric heat. "We knew that the advantages of electric heat would cost more and we were happy to find out how little more it really was. But now, with Central Hudson's latest decrease, we feel that we couldn't ask for a better heating bargain."

If you'd like the complete story on heating your home, old home or new, with electric heat, call your local Central Hudson office or send in the coupon below. You'll get a complete estimate, free of course, at no obligation whatever.

Dear Abby . . .

Mum's The Word!

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: About a year ago I hired a nice-looking, middle-aged woman to live in and be my housekeeper. She is immaculate, refined, efficient and pleasant. I pay her $40 a month and she takes only Sundays off for church and visiting friends. When she refused to use my electric dishwasher because she "enjoyed" washing dishes in a dishpan, I let it go. But she doesn't use my vacuum cleaner, either. She says she doesn't mind sweeping. She doesn't use any of my appliances. Not even the electric juicer, coffee-maker or can opener. My husband says either she is "cracked" or she doesn't know how to operate these things, and is too ashamed to ask. She gets everything done to my satisfaction, but it hurts me to see her do things the hard way. Should I say something to her about it, and insist she use these appliances, or should I keep quiet?

MRS. S.

DEAR MRS. S.: Keep quiet! And if your husband says anything to her, HE'S "cracked."

DEAR ABBY: One of my neighbors is young and good-looking. She wears very tight pants and always comes over to my house when my husband is home for lunch. He is on a special diet so I can't pack him a lunch. Lately I have noticed that he pays more attention to her than he does to his lunch. Do I have a problem?

JUST MARRIED

DEAR JUST: Yes, but not because you can't pack your husband a lunch. It's the way your neighbor packs her slacks! Tell your neighbor that you would enjoy her visits either before lunch or after, but not during, because you want to lunch alone with your husband.

DEAR ABBY: Every now and then I see letters in your column from brides desiring to avoid the presence of relatives' brats at their weddings. They inquire if it is proper to add "No children, please," or words to that effect, on their wedding invitations. Invariably you say it is not proper to add such a message, which, of course, is good advice. I am reminded of a cousin of mine who could have used your advice 35 years ago. At the bottom of her wedding invitations was a postscript in her own hand, "No children expected."

STILL LAUGHING

DEAR ABBY: The window who signed herself, "DISAPPOINTED IN MY CHILDREN" should have signed herself, "DISAPPOINTED IN MY HUSBAND." If he had had an adequate life insurance program during his life, his widow would have been independent. Then she would have been a welcome visitor in her children's homes, instead of an unwanted burden.

OLBIA, Sardinia (AP)—Britain's Princess Margaret, her husband and the Aga Khan abandoned a yacht which hit a rock in heavy seas off Sardinia, and reached shore safely in rubber lifeboats, Italian authorities said today.

Mario Castellucci, chief administrative officer for this vacation area, said the accident happened Wednesday while the three, and the Aga Khan's French lawyer, Andre Arduc, of Paris, were on an outing aboard the Aga Khan's pleasure boat, the Amaloun.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jointly the Foreign Service and see the U.S.A.?

It's working out that way for 42-year-old Richard G. Johnson, a senior U.S. Foreign Service officer who left with his wife and two children Thursday on a motor trip to San Francisco sponsored by the State Department.

Announcing the tour, the department said the only cost for Johnson, who is home on leave, will be for food, highway toll charges and incidentals.

Along the way, while renewing his acquaintance with this country, he will make speeches explaining the work of the Foreign Service.

The major costs are being borne by the Wally Byam Foundation and the Ford Motor Co. The foundation is furnishing the department with three house trailers for two years and Ford is providing three automobiles to tow the trailers at an annual cost of $1,000. The foundation is supplying gasoline and oil for the cars, the State Department said.

In San Francisco, Johnson will turn the car and trailer over to another Foreign Service officer who will drive his family on the return trip east while the Johnsons will fly back to Washington to prepare for a new assignment, in Brussels, Belgium.

The Johnson trip is the first in a new State Department enterprise set up under the "community relations program." The purpose is to get returned Foreign Service officers to make speeches around the country when they are on leave and allow them to see as much of the United States as they can.

State Department officials say that one of the frequent criticisms of the Foreign Service by members of Congress is that diplomats who spend most of their lives abroad lose touch with the American people.

Johnson, a native of New Haven, Conn., has served in European and African posts since 1947. He just returned from an assignment at NATO headquarters in Paris. His speaking schedule has not been announced.

Cleo Oddities As Recorded by Associated Press

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — An airplane flew without a pilot, a man sunk his boat in a swimming pool to protect it and a group of children had an ice cream party because of Hurricane Cleo.

In Miami, a twin-engined DC3 apparently took off from Opa-Locka Airport as Cleo swirled by. Nobody saw the flight, but the plane cleared several obstacles that could have been avoided only by traveling up.

"She just snapped her ropes and took off," said maintenance man Brian MacDonald. "All that wind rushing under the wings creates lift, and that's all you need to fly."

In West Palm Beach, a young suburbanite dropped his motorboat into his backyard swimming pool to protect it from Cleo's 100-mile winds, a trick fishermen learned centuries ago when they sunk their craft into lagoons and rivers at the approach of bad weather. Then, as now, it works.

A West Palm Beach housewife inadvertently stocked up on a freezer full of ice cream the afternoon before Cleo struck. Her power went out and the ice cream threatened to drip all over the kitchen.

Instead, she hauled it out and gave the neighborhood children an ice cream party.

In Delray Beach, a veteran of World War I said Cleo was "worse than Argonne." The man, C. J. Hildet, 72, is custodian at the drive-in theatre and lives at the bottom of the huge, extra wide screen in a four-room apartment.

Cleo ripped the screen apart by bit, hurling 14 wood beams through the ceiling of Hildet's apartment. "I just kept retreating from room to room as the beams came through the ceiling," he said. "This was my first hurricane and I hope it is my last."

In Miami, two trustees at the Dade County Jail were assigned records of Senator Goldwater and Congressman Miller as he is convinced that if Senator Goldwater's true position on such vital matters as civil rights, foreign policy and domestic economy were made known to the public the Goldwater-Miller ticket would be swept into office by an overwhelming majority.

The chairman of the Goldwater organization stated, however, that much adverse publicity has been spread by Goldwater's detractors, both Democrat and Republican as well as by a large segment of the more liberal press, and these people, for strictly political reasons, constantly misquote Goldwater, distort his ideals and principals, and create falsehoods which they hope will destroy the true image of a forthright, courageous and honest American whose only desire is to insure the strength and safety of the United States and the freedom of all its people.

Foreign Service Officers Getting Free Tours of U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Join the Foreign Service and see the U.S.?

It's working out that way for 42-year-old Richard G. Johnson, a senior U.S. Foreign Service officer who left with his wife and two children Thursday on a motor trip to San Francisco sponsored by the State Department.

Announcing the tour, the department said the only cost for Johnson, who is home on leave, will be for food, highway toll charges and incidentals.

Along the way, while renewing his acquaintance with this country, he will make speeches explaining the work of the Foreign Service.

The major costs are being borne by the Wally Byam Foundation and the Ford Motor Co. The foundation is furnishing the department with three house trailers for two years and Ford is providing three automobiles to tow the trailers at an annual cost of $1,000. The foundation is supplying gasoline and oil for the cars, the State Department said.

In San Francisco, Johnson will turn the car and trailer over to another Foreign Service officer who will drive his family on the return trip east while the Johnsons will fly back to Washington to prepare for a new assignment, in Brussels, Belgium.

The Johnson trip is the first in a new State Department enterprise set up under the "community relations program." The purpose is to get returned Foreign Service officers to make speeches around the country when they are on home leave and allow them to see as much of the United States as they can.

State Department officials say that one of the frequent criticisms of members of Congress is that diplomats who spend most of their lives abroad lose touch with the American people.

Johnson, a native of New Haven, Conn., has served in European and African posts since 1947. He just returned from an assignment at NATO headquarters in Paris. His speaking schedule has not been announced.

Restaurant to Be Continued Under Name of Judies

Vincent Buckman, operator of Buckman's popular restaurant on Rock City Road, Woodstock, today confirmed a report that he has purchased Judie's Restaurant, 395 Albany Avenue, from the present proprietor, Mrs. Julia C. Currie.

Buckman said he plans to take over the restaurant on Albany Avenue between Sept. 15 and Oct. 1, and will continue to operate it under the name Judie's Restaurant. Buckman said the sale has been consummated.

Recently, The Freeman also reported it had learned from reliable sources that Mrs. Currie's daughter, Mrs. John (Betty) Schick, was negotiating for the purchase of the estate of the late County Judge Andrew J. Cook at 263 Albany Avenue, from Earl Milner.

Humphrey to Talk In All of 50 States

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — President Johnson has given the word that Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey will be ready to speak in all 50 states this election campaign.

The notice came at the Democratic National Convention when Johnson hailed the acceptance speech of the vice presidential nominee and told the Democrats to expect more of the same throughout the nation this fall.

The Minnesota senator undoubtedly was prepared for it. He has been saying all week that the No. 2 man on the ticket must expect to carry a heavy share of the barnstorming load in the next two months.

Form County . . .

leading Republicans including Pitcairn.

Following the opening address the Committee elected Robert I. Baron of Hurley, as chairman. Baron, a Democrat, stated that the committee will welcome any resident of the county to join the organization and work for the election of the Goldwater-Miller ticket and hoped that the efforts of the Ulster County group will be emulated throughout the state to insure a smashing victory for Goldwater in November.

Also elected was John Berlanga of Kingston as treasurer; Mrs. Jean Rickard of Mt. Tremper, recording secretary; Charles Houska, Stone Ridge, corresponding secretary and John Marquardt, Glenford, director of publicity.

Baron stated that a district chairman for the entire county will be named shortly and local campaigns started in every town in Ulster County, particularly in such areas as Woodstock, Saugerties, Rosendale, New Paltz, Ellenville, Phoenicia, Highland and Walkill. A County Campaign Headquarters will be opened shortly in the City of Kingston.

The temporary mailing address will be at 1 Albany Avenue, Kingston.

Two local attorneys, Clark Bell of Woodstock and Edward Feeney of Kingston, were named as legal counsels to handle all legal matters which may arise during the campaign.

Cites Objectives

Chairman Baron stated that the first major job in the campaign is to conduct a massive, county-wide registration drive to make sure that every person of voting age in Ulster County is eligible to cast their vote on Election Day. Baron stated that the second objective will be to bring home to the voters of Ulster County the outstanding records of Senator Goldwater and Congressman Miller as he is convinced that if Senator Goldwater's true position on such vital matters as civil rights, foreign policy and domestic economy were made known to the public the Goldwater-Miller ticket would be swept into victory by an overwhelming majority.

The chairman of the Goldwater organization stated, however, that much adverse publicity has been spread by Goldwater's detractors, both Democrat and Republican as well as by a large segment of the more liberal press, and these people, for strictly political reasons, constantly misquote Goldwater, distort his ideals and principals, and create falsehoods which he hopes will destroy the true image of a forthright, courageous and honest American whose only desire is to insure the strength and safety of the United States and the freedom of all its people.

Baron added that the job of the newly formed committee will be to act as a sort of "Truth Team" for Goldwater and at least allow the voters of Ulster County to see both sides of the issues so that they may go to the polls as an informed electorate and vote for the man who they feel best represents the interests of their nation.

Lodge in Rome

ROME (AP) — Henry Cabot Lodge, U.S. presidential envoy on a tour to explain American policies in Southeast Asia, reached Rome today.

His first official mission was nonpolitical. He went to the presidential palace and signed a visitors' register for gravely ill President Antonio Segni.

Lodge said he did so at the request of President Johnson and former President Dwight D. Eisenhower. Segni, who suffered a stroke three weeks ago, is too ill to have visitors.

A visitor at the fair yesterday, Sen. Keating said he is willing to debate with Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, "if the proper ground rules could be arranged."

Keating, according to the Associated Press, made this statement when informed that Kennedy had expressed a willingness to debate.

Termed Presumptuous

The senator from Rochester said, however, that it is "somewhat presumptuous at this time" to talk about a debate because neither he nor Kennedy has been nominated. Nominations are scheduled for next week—Keating by the Republicans on Monday and Kennedy by the Democrats on Tuesday.

Keating, whose visit here after a four-day tour of 15 counties, received an enthusiastic reception from hundreds of persons at the fair.

His tour took him to New York City where Thursday he spoke at a meeting of leaders of the United Jewish Appeal of Greater New York.

Keating received an ovation when he urged that the United Nations establish a special sub-committee "to collect and process information concerning war criminals living in foreign countries."

Returns to Gotham After his visit here, Keating went back to New York City, to meet with Republican leaders there today.

He said he had received "heartening reactions" on his four-day tour.

Keating reiterated that the key issue in the Senate campaign is his record in Congress for the last 18 years—12 in the through the fence as scores of fair-goers jumped and ran to safety. Eighteen persons were hit and many were knocked to the ground in the crowd. Some were trampled on, but none was seriously injured, it was said.

Troopers said many persons "dove under the grandstand" to escape injury.

About an hour after the accident, Howard, one of the stunt drivers, suffered an injury of the left leg when he was cut by a piece of aluminum that protruded from his damaged vehicle. He was taken to the hospital in Rhinebeck where four sutures were taken to close the laceration.

First Mishap

Robert Conto, of Paterson, N. J., general manager of the Koochman "Hell Drivers," told newsmen at the track he had managed the team of stunt drivers the last 14 years, and the accident at the Dutchess Fair was the first which resulted in injuries to spectators.

State Police and deputy sheriffs reportedly had cautioned the crowds to stand a safe distance back from the fence during the thrilling stunts, but scores of persons insisted on lining the fence at the time.

Earl Laffin, head of the Dutchess County Red Cross First Aid unit and inspector of the Arlington Fire Department, who also is coordinator of the county's disaster unit, was in charge of operations in handling the calls for emergency vehicles yesterday.

He highly praised the staff at the Northern Dutchess Hospital for their work in treating the 19 injured persons. It was reported that several area physicians responded to emergency calls and hurried to the hospital to assist in treating the injured.

A visitor at the fair yesterday, Sen. Keating said he is willing to debate with Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, "if the proper ground rules could be arranged."

Keating, according to the Associated Press, made this statement when informed that Kennedy had expressed a willingness to debate.

Keating received an ovation when he urged that the United Nations establish a special sub-committee "to collect and process information concerning war criminals living in foreign countries."

Returns to Gotham After his visit here, Keating went back to New York City, to meet with Republican leaders there today.

He said he had received "heartening reactions" on his four-day tour.

Mrs. Kennedy Given 5-Hour Reception By the Harrimans

By JOY MILLER

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Mrs. John F. Kennedy greeted thousands of Democratic delegates with a smile and a handshake at a reception in her honor. But she left town before the convention paid tribute to her assassinated husband in its closing session.

The five-hour-long reception, given Thursday by Undersecretary of State W. Averell Harriman and Mrs. Harriman, was the first large public function the former First Lady has attended since last November's tragedy.

Accompanied by several of the Kennedy clan — sisters-in-law Eunice Shriver, Jean Smith and Pat Lawford — Mrs. Kennedy flew in for the occasion. After the last guest had filed past the receiving line, she left town bound for her mother's summer home in Newport, R.I.

A family spokesman said the filmed memorial tribute to her husband would be too much of an emotional ordeal for her.

The reception, held in a hotel's white and gold ballroom, was so large it had to be divided into three sections. Lynda Johnson, the President's 20-year-old daughter, dropped in on the first, while her mother paid her respects later.

At each session the former First Lady, who wore a simple V-neck, sleeveless, two-piece white, ribbed silk dress and white shoes and gloves, made a brief speech.

"I want to thank all of you for coming who helped President Kennedy in 1960," she said in a soft, barely audible voice.

Valentine Bruno-Lewis R. Berryann Are Married; Exchange Vows in Phoenicia

On August 23, 1964 in St. Francis de Sale Church, Phoenicia, marriage vows were taken by Valentine Bruno of West Hurley and Lewis R. Berryann of Loring Air Force Base, Maine and Woodstock.

Officiating at the 12:30 p. m. ceremony was the Rev. John Gorman, pastor.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hartman C. Dutcher of West Hurley. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Berryann of Woodstock.

For her wedding gown, the bride wore a floor length gown of white silk organza over tulle. It was styled with a fitted bodice, scooped neckline, long tapered sleeves and princess panel front skirt accented with pearls and iridescent sequins. Her bouffant butterfly veil was of English silk illusion and was held by a Swedish crown of horsehair trimmed with pearls and crystals. She carried a cascade bouquet of stephanotis centered with a light blue orchid and ivy.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother George C. Bruno.

The maid of honor was Linda J. Alkozine of Albany. She wore a floor length gown of light blue peau taffeta and carried a cascade bouquet of white pompons. Janet Evans of Jackson Heights, L. I. was the bridesmaid and Anne Marie Dutcher of West Hurley was a junior bridesmaid for her sister. They wore royal blue gowns and carried white pompons.

Wayne Underhill Jr., of Woodstock, was best man. Ushers were Kenneth L. Wilson Jr., cousin of the bridegroom, Robert Foster and Daniel Wilber, all of Woodstock.

A reception for 124 guests was given at the Irvington Inn in

Woman's Program Exhibit at State Fair Is Announced

ALBANY — Four different skills that deft-fingered women with an artistic flair can cultivate to income-earning proportions will be demonstrated twice daily at the State Commerce Department Women's Program exhibit in the Women's Building at the New York State Exposition this year. Woman's Program head, Deputy Commissioner Guin Hall, says demonstrations will be given at 2:30 p. m. and 7:30 p. m.

On opening day, Tuesday, Sept. 1, Karen R. Nielsen, Home Economist of the R. T. French Company, Rochester, will show how some of the 60 different R. T. French spices can be used to create "Spice Paintings."

Screen printing on fabrics for distinctive and unusual table mats, clothing, or small eye-catching items will be demonstrated by Mary Frances Burns, Art Director of the Prang Studio of the American Crayon Company, on Wednesday, Sept. 2. Miss Burns will use Aqua Textile Colors, which, being permanent, allow laundering of the fabrics on which they are used.

"Gift wrapping is an artistic skill useful not only to individuals and stores, but also as a source of income for the woman at home who can develop it as a service for clubs, conventions and business firms," according to Miss Hall. She has therefore arranged for an expert in this craft, Miss Martha Gamble, of the Tie-Tie Gift Wrapping Company, to demonstrate at the Women's Program exhibit on Thursday, September 3. Miss Gamble points out that the same skills can be applied to making wreaths and ornaments for sale — and that a woman with additional ingenuity can go on into the making of party favors, table decorations, etc. Miss Gamble's own "most-difficult" job was gift-wrapping a live goose in a department store.

Another way to enter the gift field, according to Miss Hall, is to make items based on patterns. On Friday, September 4th, Mrs. Martha R. Van Lennep, McCall's Patterns representative, will demonstrate several such articles at the Women's Program exhibit — handsome stuffed velvet and felt Christmas creations, smocked and appliqued items, puppets, etc. Four brand new McCall's stuffed dolls will make their debut under Mrs. Van Lennep's auspices that day: "Mary Poppins," inspired by the Walt Disney motion picture of that name, and McCall's "Hill Billy" trio — "Paw," "Shorty" and "Pearl" — for which patterns will be available September 20th.

Demonstrations at the Women's Program exhibit are allied with this year's Woman's Program Display, "Christmas in New York State," which will abound with gift items made and sold as a business by women in this State.

The Woman's Program offers free business counsel to women who wish to market articles they make, establish a service found on home or artistic skills, or open or expand a business of their own. During the State Exposition, free advice will be available at the Woman's Program exhibit from Mrs. Mildred O. Meskil, Senior Business Consultant, and Mrs. Nancy Stellegers of the Woman's Program Office at 112 State Street, Albany, and Mrs. Blanche McIntosh, Business Consultant, Woman's Program Office at 230 Park Avenue, New York City.

LOCAL RESIDENT IN FINLAND — A student vacation exchange recently brought Miss Anja Veikkonen, left, from Helsinki, Finland to visit America for six weeks with Barbara Anne Williams, right, of Rosendale, as hostess. The two young ladies then journeyed to Finland together. Miss Williams reports that the cities are cultural in atmosphere, beautiful and modern but that the real Finland is to be found in the lake country, forests and on the farms.

WIDOW WANTS TO PAY HER OWN WAY

Q: I am a widow and fortunately have been left enough money to live on quite comfortably. I like to go out, but not alone. My friends know this and very often when they go to the theater or out to dinner, they ask me to go along. I am only too happy to do so except for one thing—the question of payment. Most of these friends are in moderate circumstances and it is not fair for the husbands to have to pay for an extra woman all the time. How can I pay my own way without embarrassing them?

A: It is best to treat a situation like this frankly and say that you would love to go with them if you can pay your own way, but won't otherwise. If they agree to this, you can give them a sum of money, which you feel sure is enough to take care of your share, to the husbands before you start out.

Bidding Girl Good-Night

Q: When seeing a girl home after a date, does a boy take her right to the door of her apartment or does he bid her good-night in the lobby?

A: In a building that has a doorman or a serviced elevator, he bids her goodnight in the lobby. In an unprotected building or one with a self-service elevator he sees her safely to her door.

Sitting at Table With Strangers

Q: When eating in a crowded cafeteria where one is obliged to sit at a table with strangers, do good manners exact that permission be asked of the party already seated before taking an empty place?

A: You don't have to ask permission to sit down, but you should ask, "Is this place taken?" before taking the empty seat.

Just Naturally Fat
Girls Study Reveals

CHICAGO (AP) — Science has a not-too-reassuring word for anxious mothers of fat daughters.

A study announced Thursday showed that of 180 teen-age fat girls, 175 of them were just naturally built that way.

And furthermore, their builds were largely inherited from their parents.

Technically, Doctors Carl C. Selinger and Jean Mayer of Harvard University described the 175 fat girls' build as endomorphic, having "a body-poly physique with the abdomen larger than the chest and relatively small hands and feet."

The endomorph, they said, has a natural tendency to put on fat.

Results of the study were reported in the current issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association.

LOCAL ART EXHIBIT—The fifth annual exhibit of paintings displayed by the Ulster County Art Association at the Ulster County Savings Institution, this city, is drawing a great deal of interest. In the past more than 1600 votes have been cast for a single show. The bank gives three awards. The show, which opened on Monday, will conclude Sept. 4. Twenty-one artists are represented in the exhibit.

He's 65 Today, But— Charles Boyer Is Busy Man, Against Hiding Ones Age

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Many men mark their 65th birthday by retiring from their life's work. Charles Boyer is celebrating his 65th by costarring in a movie and a television series simultaneously.

It seems incredible that Hollywood's version of Le Grand Charles could be 65, but he is the first to admit it. Today is his birthday.

"I have never tried to hide my age," said the ever-charming Boyer. "Oh, I know that actresses do it, and some actors, too. But it is silly. There are so many ways of finding out an actor's age."

"Besides, if you don't tell your age, people are apt to think you are older than you really are."

Boyer is one of the few actors whose birthdate is plainly printed in his official biography. He has never made any fuss about his baldness; he plays roles with or without toupees, his hair having thinned at age 27.

Smooth-topped or wigged, he remains a handsome figure of a man. The romantic quality is still present, and that is a factor he has had to live with all these years.

"It's really a misconception," he argued.

"I actually did very few romantic roles; 'Love Affair' was one, and it remains one of my favorites."

Admittedly he made movie love to many of the great female stars — Garbo ("Conquest"), Dietrich ("Garden of Allah"), Davis ("All This and Heaven, too"), Bergman ("Gaslight"), De Havilland ("Hold Back the Dawn"). But always he was a man of action, as with his Napoleon in "Conquest."

Boyer has worked all his adult life. Right now he is appearing with Rock Hudson and Leslie Caron in "The Favor." On his days off from the movie he works in "The Rogues," the new television series which he and partner David Niven (and Gig Young) are making for their Four Star Productions.

"I will always go on working," Boyer said, "although a few years ago I decided to do only the things I enjoy."

Kiwanians Hear About Recreation From Director

"We try to do the best we can with what we have."

This was the theme of the story of the City of Kingston Park and Recreation Department as told to the Kingston Kiwanis Club Thursday by Andrew Murphy III, superintendent of the department.

That "the best we can" is probably fairly good was underlined when he explained that their program must meet the standards of the Division of Youth for the State of New York in order that the city would receive its allocation of funds from this state department.

50 Per Cent Girls

Murphy stated that the staff employed by his department is "about 50 per cent girls," and the "entire staff is doing an outstanding job this summer."

Prior to staff manning the various parks of the city, its members are given a two-day training institute which includes instruction in playground administration, public relations, life saving and first aid, athletic endeavors, story telling and reading, arts and crafts, and program directing and reporting.

The summer program in the parks occupy a period of eight weeks with the play areas being open from 9:30 to 8 p. m. in the larger parks and 9:30 to 5 p. m. in the smaller centers. According to Murphy, the programs are on a "week-to-week basis." They include handicraft, dog shows, games, athletics, visitations, competitions and displays at the parks and at the Ulster County Fair.

Murphy's department has jurisdiction over 12 parks and play areas and the Recreation Center at 97 Broadway. An item of $16,000 is included in the city budget for this department, said Murphy, who indicated that the neighboring City of Poughkeepsie has a budget in excess of $50,000 for the same activities.

Enrollment 1888

Total enrollment at the parks this summer numbers 1888, with a daily attendance average of 638, said the superintendent. The Recreation Center averages 210 daily, he said. There are four movies per week in the summer program during the evening, in addition to softball and basketball leagues. Dances are also a part of the summer program, with a recent dance at Forsyth Park numbering 1200 young people in attendance.

Legged trouble from participants in the park programs. Superintendent Murphy replied that he thought "over 99 per cent are good kids, but it's the less than 1 per cent who cause trouble and make the rest look bad." He also stated that there was a yearly destruction within the parks costing about $3,000, and he pointed out that it was difficult for the police department to prove charges against anyone for this destruction.

In conclusion, Murphy emphatically stated that the local park program was a cooperative endeavor—"we're trying to do the best we can with what we have."

BABSON on BUSINESS

By ROGER W. BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass., Aug. 27 — A little more than ten years ago I talked to you at some length about the great impact that the volume of marriages has on business. At that time I was foreseeing dismal prospects, but now I am very optimistic. Let me clarify my reasons for changing from a red light over ten years ago on the matter of marriage totals to a green light today.

Checking Back on Birth Rates

At the beginning of the 1950s, formations of families in the U.S. were dependent on the birth rate back around 1930. At that depression time births averaged only about 17½ per thousand of population, approximately 20% below the rate of the booming 1920s. At the depression low of 1933, one-third fewer babies were born than during the highest year of the 1920s. So you can see why I warned businessmen in the early 1950s that new family formations would be static for at least a few years, with such a drop in the number of marriageable-age youngsters coming along.

At the present time, however, we look back into the 1940s to judge the prospects for family formation. The 1940s were a time of prosperity, and couples were marrying at a generally younger age. The war years were involved then too, resulting in earlier and more numerous marriages. An all-time high of about 120 marriages for each 1,000 unmarried females over 15 years of age was reached in 1946. As the babies who were born during the marriage upsurge in the 1940s reach marriageable age (starting just about now), there will begin to be a big increase in new family formations.

Effects on General Business

We all appreciate the social importance of the institution of marriage; but its tremendous economic influence is too often disregarded. When a man and woman get married, an entirely new family is thereby created. This usually involves separate living quarters, and thus accounts in large measure for the continuing construction of apartment units and new houses. This means increased need for lumber, steel, glass, cement, paper, electrical equipment, and plumbing. Then come furniture, rugs, and household accessories.

Demand rises for electricity, water, and gas. And the banks get the business for the mortgages. Every businessman who reads this column is probably affected in one way or another. As the babies come into the world, up goes the need for milk, baby food, clothing, cubs and carriages, toys, and so on. Thus, marriage is one of the great props for business and should act as a powerful support for the economy in the years just ahead.

Give Extra Attention to Birth Rates

Whereas at the start of the 1950s I looked for several years of static figures for family formations, I now feel confident that the next few years will see the exact opposite. The effects will be far-reaching. In case recessionary forces should be felt—after the record-breaking economic climb of the past few years—the mounting marriage rate would be a great help in cushioning such a correction. And, in the normal course of events, more marriages should be followed by a renewed upsurge in the number of births. The new surge in births should take place in the late 1960s and early 1970s.

While on the subject of population, I should point out that there will also be a gain in the number of people in the over-65 group. Better medical care, improved foods, and comfortable housing are extending the life span of our citizens, making older people healthier, happier, and more active. The result is, of course, ever wider markets for this group. Those over 65 will travel more, and enjoy more recreation. Markets will be very active for preventive medicines, health foods, easy-care clothing, etc.

Capitalize on Increases at Both Extremes

Hence, while there will not be any gains in totals of middle-ageders coming up right away, there will be exceptional advances in the number of babies and young children, and of people over 65. Businessmen who keep up with the times should set their marketing sights and select their products accordingly.

The 'People's Party'

Goldwater Will Be Main Target of Democrats

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — President Johnson and Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, in accepting the Democratic presidential and vice presidential nominations, have taken a line unique in this generation.

Without saying it flatly, they made the point that their fight in this campaign is not so much with the Republican party as with the supporters of Sen. Barry Goldwater.

In doing this they sought to make the Democratic party — by calling it a "people's party" and a "national party" — a rallying point for all anti-Goldwater forces in or out of the Republican party.

But if Johnson and Humphrey follow the technique they used Thursday night at the Democratic convention, Johnson will be making lofty speeches with out direct name-calling while Humphrey tries to hit Goldwater between the eyes.

Johnson was mild, talking of the needs and the glorious possibilities of the future and never once mentioned either the Republicans or Goldwater by name. He presented himself as a man with his eyes on the future.

The more earthy Humphrey talked of the here and now, in this case the fight against Goldwater whom he named by name. Like Johnson, Humphrey was gentle on the Republicans as a party.

Item by item he mentioned major programs approved by Congress in the past few years in which he said Democrats and Republicans joined forces while Goldwater disappeared.

Just how long Johnson retains his aloof and above-the-strife technique may depend on how soon, and to what degree, Goldwater starts to butt heads with him directly. Goldwater has not been reluctant to do this in the past.

But while Johnson refrained from directly mentioning Goldwater by name, he made statements which could not be interpreted as anything but swipes at the Arizona senator.

"The contest today," Johnson said, "is not between liberals and conservatives, party and party, platform and platform. It is between those who see what can be and those who want only to maintain the status quo."

He pitched his speech on the theme that the nation has a lot of unfinished business — particularly programs in the social welfare field — and that under his leadership they would be fulfilled.

Then, building up to the oblique assault on Goldwater, Johnson said that for 30 years men of both parties have "built a solid foundation for our present prosperity."

He added: "Too many have worked too hard and too long to see this threatened now by policies which promise to undo all we have done together."

He's 65 Today, But— Charles Boyer Is Busy Man. Against Hiding Ones Age

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Many men mark their 65th birthday by retiring from their life's work. Charles Boyer is celebrating his 65th by costarring in a movie and a television series simultaneously.

It seems incredible that Hollywood's version of Le Grand Charles could be 65, but he is the first to admit it. Today is his birthday.

"I have never tried to hide my age," said the ever-charming Boyer. "Oh, I know that actresses do it, and some actors, too. But it is silly. There are so many ways of finding out an actor's age."

"Besides, if you don't tell your age, people are apt to think you are older than you really are."

Boyer is one of the few actors whose birthdate is plainly printed in his official biography. He has never made any fuss about his baldness; he plays roles with or without toupees, his hair having thinned at age 27.

Smooth-topped or wigged, he remains a handsome figure of a man. The romantic quality is still present, and that is a factor he has had to live with all these years.

"It's really a misconception," he argued. "I actually did very few romantic roles; 'Love Affair' was one, and it remains one of my favorites."

Admittedly he made movie love to many of the great female stars — Garbo ("Conquest"), Dietrich ("Garden of Allah"), Davis ("All This and Heaven, too"), Bergman ("Hush"), De Havilland ("Hold Back the Dawn"). But always he was a man of action, as with his Napoleon in "Conquest."

Boyer has worked all his adult life. Right now he is appearing with Rock Hudson and Leslie Caron in "The Favour." On his days off from the movie he works in "The Rogues," the new television series which he and partner David Niven (and Gig Young) are making for their Four Star Productions.

"I will always go on working," Boyer said, "although a few years ago I decided to do only the things I enjoyed."

Kiwanians Hear About Recreation From Director

"We try to do the best we can with what we have."

This was the theme of the story of the City of Kingston Park and Recreation Department as told to the Kingston Kiwanis Club Thursday by Andrew Murphy III, superintendent of the department.

That "the best we can" is probably fairly good was underlined by the superintendent when he explained that their program must meet the standards of the Division of Youth for the State of New York in order that the city would receive its allocation of funds from this state department.

50 Per Cent Girls
Murphy stated that the staff employed by his department is "about 50 per cent girls," and the "entire staff is doing an outstanding job this summer."

Prior to staff manning the various parks of the city, its members are given a two-day training institute which includes instruction in playground administration, public relations, life saving and first aid, athletic endeavors, story telling and reading, arts and crafts, and program directing and reporting.

The summer program in the parks occupy a period of eight weeks with the play areas being open from 9:30 to 8 p. m. in the larger parks and 9:30 to 5 p. m. in the smaller centers. According to Murphy, the programs are on a "week-to-week basis." They include handicraft, dog shows, games, athletics, visitations, competitions and displays at the parks and at the Ulster County Fair.

Murphy's department has jurisdiction over 12 parks and play areas and the Recreation Center at 97 Broadway. An item of $16,000 is included in the city budget for this department, said Murphy, who indicated that the neighboring City of Poughkeepsie has a budget in excess of $50,000 for the same activities.

Enrollment 1888

Total enrollment at the parks this summer numbers 1888, with a daily attendance average of 638, said the superintendent. The Recreation Center averages 210 daily, he said. There are four movies per week in the summer program during the evening, in addition to softball and basketball leagues. Dances are also a part of the summer program, with a recent dance at Forsyth Park numbering 1200 young people in attendance.

Legged trouble from participants in the park programs. Superintendent Murphy replied that he thought "over 99 per cent are good kids, but it's the less than 1 per cent who cause trouble and make the rest look bad." He also stated that there was a yearly destruction within the parks costing about $3,000, and he pointed out that it was difficult for the police department to prove charges against anyone for this destruction.

In conclusion, Murphy emphatically stated that the local park program was a cooperative endeavor—"we're trying to do the best we can with what we have."

BABSON on BUSINESS

By ROGER W. BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass., Aug. 27 — A little more than ten year ago I talked to you at some length about the great impact that the volume of marriages has on business. At that time I was forecasting dismal prospects, but now I am very optimistic. Let me clarify my reasons for changing from a red light over ten years ago on the matter of marriage totals to a green light today.

Checking Back on Birth Rates
At the beginning of the 1950s, formations of families in the U.S. were dependent on the birth rate back around 1930. At that depression time births averaged only about 17½ per thousand of population, approximately 20% below the rate of the booming 1920s. At the depression low of 1933, one-third fewer babies were born than during the highest year of the 1920s. So you can see why I warned businessmen in the early 1950s that new family formations would be static for at least a few years, with such a drop in the number of marriageable-age youngsters coming along.

At the present time, however, we look back into the 1940s to judge the prospects for family formation. The 1940s were a time of prosperity, and couples were marrying at a generally younger age. The war years were involved then too, resulting in earlier and more numerous marriages. An all-time high of about 120 marriages for each 1,000 unmarried females over 15 years of age was reached in 1946. As the babies who were born during the marriage upsurge in the 1940s reach marriageable age (starting just about now), there will begin to be a big increase in new family formations.

Effects on General Business
We all appreciate the social importance of the institution of marriage; but its tremendous economic influence is too often disregarded. When a man and woman get married, an entirely new family is thereby created. This usually involves separate living quarters, and thus accounts in large measure for the continuing construction of apartment units and new houses. This means increased need for lumber, steel, glass, cement, paper, electrical equipment, and plumbing. Then come furniture, rugs, and household accessories.

Demand rises for electricity, water, and gas. And the banks get the business for the mortgages. Every businessman who reads this column is probably affected in one way or another. As the babies come into the world, up goes the need for milk, baby food, clothing, cribs and carriages, toys, and so on. Thus, marriage is one of the great props for business and should act as a powerful support for the economy in the years just ahead.

Give Extra Attention to Birth Rates

Whereas at the start of the 1950s I looked for several years of static figures for family formations, I now feel confident that the next few years will see the exact opposite. The effects will be far-reaching. In case recessional forces should be felt—after the record-breaking economic climb of the past few years—the mounting marriage rate would be a great help in cushioning such a correction. And, in the normal course of events, more marriages should be followed by a renewed upsurge in the number of births. The new surge in births should take place in the late 1960s and early 1970s.

While on the subject of population, I should point out that there will also be a gain in the number of people in the over-65 group. Better medical care, improved foods, and comfortable housing are extending the life span of our citizens, making older people healthier, happier, and more active. The result is, of course, ever wider markets for this group. Those over 65 will travel more, and enjoy more recreation. Campaign Trail Is No Stranger To Country's 32nd First Lady

By FRANCES LEWINE

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Another campaign is nothing new for Lady Bird Johnson. She's thrived on them for 27 years.

In the nine months she's served as the nation's 32nd First Lady, Mrs. Johnson traveled about 35,000 miles across America, helping to promote the administration of her husband, President Johnson.

She barely paused from official and political travel to get to the convention.

Some idea of the pace she maintains was shown in Mrs. Johnson's recent four-day Western tour in which she kept up an 18-hour-a-day schedule.

At 51, black-haired, brown-eyed Mrs. Johnson continues to have unusual energy and enthusiasm for the tasks of greeting constituents and "people-seeing," as she calls her trips. And, she has a dogged devotion to duty.

One reason for her trips, Mrs. Johnson explains, is that "statistics only come alive when you see the people behind them."

As a political wife, she probably holds the title "best-qualified" from experience alone.

She got a $10,000 advance on her inheritance from her father to back Johnson's first congressional campaign in 1937 — and she's been busy backing him ever since.

Catapulted into the White House upon the assassination of President John F. Kennedy, she took on the role of First Lady with the smoothness and ease of long training in Washington ways.

It is generally agreed that not since Eleanor Roosevelt, has a First Lady taken on so much or involved herself so keenly in the husband's projects. Mrs. Johnson also serves as an extra set of eyes and ears to keep the man in the White House informed.

Mrs. Johnson has overcome her own shyness and with some professional help has been perfecting a smooth delivery of speeches, which lately have been taking on a more political tinge.

Her greatest asset is the feeling of genuine warmth and interest that she displays on her trips and visits.

Keeps Busy Schedule

Except that she's busier, being in the White House hasn't changed Mrs. Johnson. She still goes out to the hairdresser instead of having him come in.

She manages to shop once in a while without being recognized. And she doesn't mind a bit being seen in the same dress more than once. In fact, she makes a point to say she thinks clothes should serve the person, not the other way around."

She's still in the size 10 she's been for years, weighs about 114 pounds, and keeps that way by dieting when needed, often on prunes and hardboiled eggs.

Mostly Mrs. Johnson prefers not to wear hats, but she conforms at all major functions.

Only last week, she took a "stolen moment," with 20-year-old daughter, Lynda, and the two strolled to the nearby Tidal Basin south of the White House and went out in a paddle boat to relax alone.

Because she was born in Texas like her husband, Mrs. Johnson is constantly greeted with the strains of "The Yellow Rose of Texas" and bouquets of yellow roses are presented to her at almost every stop. She usually pauses before she leaves to write a note and send the flowers she can't use on to a local hospital or someone needy.

When she signs autographs in crowds, recipients often are surprised to see what she's written. It's "LBJ" — but those are her initials as well as the President's.

Earns Early Nickname

Actually, Mrs. Johnson was named Claudia Alta Taylor when she was born Dec. 12, 1912, in the East Texas town of Karnack, where her father, Thomas Jefferson Taylor, operated a general store and owned cotton lands.

But, nobody ever calls her that. "It's 'Lady Bird,'" the name a nursemaid settled on her at the age of two, declaring "Why, she's as pretty as a lady bird." Mrs. Johnson tried hard to lose the nickname, but it stuck and she has accepted it, too.

She carries into her everyday speech the poetic and colorful phrases that her close associates say comes from a lonely childhood spent reading her mother's library filled with classics.

Her mother, Minnie Pattillo Taylor, from a wealthy Alabama family, died when Lady Bird was 5 years old and she was brought up by a maiden aunt, Effie Pattillo, who saw her through Marshall High School, where she was graduated at 15, and on to St. Mary's School for Girls in Dallas.

Lady Bird majored in history at the University of Texas in Austin, where she earned a bachelor of arts degree in 1933 and went on for a degree in journalism the following year.

Weds LBJ in 1934

Tall Texan Lyndon Johnson came into Lady Bird's life before she could start the careers she contemplated as a qualified grade teacher, also trained in shorthand, typing and business courses that would have come in handy in secretarial work.

They were introduced by a friend. Lyndon proposed the next day and they were married two months later, Nov. 17, 1934, at old St. Mark's Episcopal church in San Antonio, Tex. She was 21, he 26.

Mrs. Johnson inherited money and lands from her Alabama relatives and with some of the money she decided in 1942 to invest in a small, debt-ridden radio station, KTBC, in Austin. In the years since, she has built it into a multimillion-dollar enterprise.

When the President released a financial statement for his family just before the Democratic convention, it revealed that through a 10-year period, from 1954 to 1964, she was paid more for her services to Texas Broadcasting Corp., than her husband received in the same period as senator, vice president and President. She got $570,856.

53 Are Indicted In Upstate Riots, 33 People Cleared

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—A grand jury has indicted 53 persons who will be arraigned today and cleared another 33 in the wake of a three-day race riot last month in which five persons were killed and hundreds of others injured.

The grand jury, in a report Thursday to Judge George D. Ogden of Monroe County Court, returned 38 sealed and 15 open indictments — 45 involving Negroes.

At the same time, the report cleared 53 others, including 30 Negroes.

Police arrested 976 persons during and following the riots July 24, 25 and 26.

Later, charges against 760 persons were dropped or referred to City Court.

The balance of those arrested — 212 — had their cases referred to the grand jury for action.

The grand jury still must act on the cases of another 126 persons.

Meanwhile, $140,000 in property damage claims stemming from the rioting and looting have been filed against the city and county.

All Isn't Optimism

Some Democrats Still Worry Over White 'Backlash' Angle

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Democratic leaders are leaving this convention city expressing optimism — and some caution — about the party's chances in the November election.

Some admit to worry over the possibility of a white "backlash" against Negro demonstrations and the Civil Rights Act.

That is particularly true among leaders from Southern states. Several from that area could see the Johnson-Humphrey ticket's prospects as no better than even, if that much.

And some of the Southerners expect local and state candidates to run separately from the national ticket.

18 Report 'Solid'

Of the leaders of 37 states contacted by The Associated Press during the convention, 18 placed their states solidly in the Johnson-Humphrey corner in November. They are Arkansas, Connecticut, Delaware, Illinois, Iowa, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Missouri, Nevada, New Jersey, New York, Oklahoma, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Texas, West Virginia, Wisconsin.

Democratic leaders in 17 other states — including some usually Republican ones — figure they have a good chance to win, or at least their best in several years.

These are Arizona, California,

Colorado, Florida, Georgia, Idaho, Kansas, Kentucky, Maine, Montana, New Hampshire, New Mexico, North Carolina, Utah, Vermont, Washington and Wyoming.

The states in which the Democratic chances were rated at no better than even — or were not rated — are Nebraska, South Carolina, Louisiana, Mississippi and Virginia.

Cite Backlash

Asked what might cause them the most trouble in the election, leaders from 12 states, including some in the North, specified civil rights and a white backlash. Some said they believe this will be less important as an issue by election day.

The normally conservative or Republican voting records of New Hampshire, Vermont, Kansas, Oklahoma and Wyoming are the biggest obstacles seen by party leaders in those states.

California's Jesse Unruh, speaker of the State Assembly, cited another hurdle — organization. He noted: "The Democratic organization is a series of duchies and baronies and California. It takes a series of alliances to get the party moving in the same direction."

Even Arizona Democrats are talking victory. Sam Goddard, former state chairman, now running for governor, said a poll ordered by the Democrats showed Johnson leading 6 to 4 in the home state of Barry Goldwater, GOP presidential nominee.

But the optimism is tempered with caution. Frank Keller, Washington state chairman, says it is "a hard fight and getting harder every day."

Gov. Donald Russell of South Carolina says, "the situation will be close" with Sen. Barry Goldwater, the Republican nominee, now benefitting from anti-civil rights feeling.

NEW YORK (AP)—Chrysler and General Motors were in active demand as the stock market recovery continued early this afternoon in moderately active trading.

Wall Street's worries about a possible auto strike were lessened as the result of postponement by the auto union of the strike deadline to Sept. 9 from Aug. 31.

Both Chrysler and GM opened on sizable blocks and touched new highs.

The aerospace stocks continued their rally, helped additionally by President Johnson's reference to increased defense spending in his speech at the Democratic convention.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon rose 1.0 to 314.8 with industrials up 1.9, rails up .7 and utilities unchanged.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 3.18 at 838.43.

The first federal labor relations law was enacted in 1888 and applied to railroads, providing for arbitration and presidential boards of investigation.

Police said an angry crowd gathered Thursday night outside the village hall when Benedict X. DiPiazza, 21, was arraigned on a first-degree murder charge in the death of 17-year-old Noreen Jones of nearby Ithaca.

DiPiazza has been on probation since last February and under orders to stay away from the girl, police said.

They said a probation officer had received anonymous threatening phone calls after the slaying.

The court proceeding was adjourned until today at the request of DiPiazza's attorney, Acting Police Judge George Murtaugh ordered DiPiazza committed to the Herkimer County Jail.

The windows in the basement of the village hall were blocked from the view of persons on the outside during the arraignment proceedings.

State Police said DiPiazza allegedly shot the girl six times with an automatic pistol as she screamed for help and attempted to crawl under the village clerk's desk.

Noreen had been shopping with an aunt, Mrs. Alfred E. Irons, of Frankfort, for clothes that she planned to take to college in the fall.

They went to the village hall to seek police protection because DiPiazza had been following them, Mrs. Irons said, but there was nobody in the police headquarters.

Noreen saw DiPiazza enter the building and ran into the clerk's office shouting "He's got a gun," Mrs. Irons said.

Mrs. Irons said she struck DiPiazza with a newly purchased foot blender while the clerk, Fred Petrell, struggled with him until police appeared.

Police said DiPiazza had been attempting to date Noreen for three years. He was sent to a mental hospital last February after he assaulted Noreen and her parents during a conference in the Herkimer County district attorney's office.

The district attorney said the discussion was held to try to persuade DiPiazza to stop annoying the girl.

After he was released from Marcy State Hospital, DiPiazza pleaded guilty to an assault charge in Ithaca Police Court. He was placed on probation for two years and ordered to stay away from the girl.

Noreen's father was in a bank at the time of the shooting arranging a loan for her first year in college.

A graduate of St. Mary's Academy, a Roman Catholic school in Little Falls, Noreen planned to enter Maria Regina College in Syracuse in September.

Her mother, a registered nurse, learned of her daughter's death while driving home from work at a Utica hospital.

Gracie Allen . . .

Edward Allen, a song and dance man then booked in San Francisco.

At 3 1/2 she had made her stage debut. But she continued in Catholic schools until she was 14, when she began a dancing act with her three older sisters.

Later, she joined an Irish song and dance act and at one time went to secretarial school in Hoboken, N.J. It was in New Jersey that she met George.

He saw him on a bill at Union Hill, N.J., where he was booked as Burns and Lorraine. They met after the show and George revealed he was seeking a new partner. He suggested that Gracie join him.

Gracie recalled later: "Of course George had written this act for himself, with himself as the comedian and I as the straight man. But the funny thing—my straight lines got the laughs. People laughed twice as hard at my not being funny as they laughed at George's being funny. When we came off after the first show, he said, 'We're switching parts, Gracie. He rewrote the act then and there.'"

Burns and Allen played vaudeville for three years before he was able to convince her they should get married. They were wed in Cleveland on Jan. 7, 1926.

After their marriage they were propelled into the big time.

They became headliners in vaudeville and starred on the bill that ended Vaudeville at New York's Palace Theater. After guest-starring on Rudy Vallee and Guy Lombardo radio programs, they began their own show on Feb. 15, 1932.

Their career continued in radio and television until Gracie's retirement.

George once analyzed his wife's humor: "Gracie is not really funny. If she were, we couldn't get a day's work."

"Gracie has a sort of illogical logic. To her, everything else is a little nut, and after listening to her, you think maybe she's right."

The Burns lived in the same Beverly Hills home for 25 years and were part of the social life, usually in tandem with their close friends, Jack and Mary Benny. The Burns had two adopted children, Sandra, born in 1934, and Ronald, in 1935.

name. His theme: "Be kind to Republicans. They might join us."

As the convention howled approval, Humphrey let Goldwater have it with both barrels as a man "facing backward" against the mainstream of history.

"The American presidency," he said, "is not the place for a man who is impetuous in one moment and indecisive in the next; who is violently for something one day, and violently opposed on the next; whose statements on matters of major policy are so confusing and contradictory that neither friend nor foe knows where he stands."

The convention had its moment of emotion Thursday night when Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, who had been sitting somberly on a step awaiting his turn, climbed to the podium and stood in full view of the delegates. The filmed 1,000 days of his brother, the late President John F. Kennedy, was about to be shown.

As handclapping applause began, the organ boomed into sound. Within 30 seconds, it was silent. But the applause went on, welling up from the floor, where state banners were dancing in cadence, to the crowded balconies.

For 13 minutes there was a sustained outburst of sentiment as the slight young man stood motionless, his arms at his sides, the silent symbol of a president who had been murdered and of all of the clan of an administration which had died with him.

Frontlash Is Stronger

When the President had concluded his speech, Johnson held an impromptu news conference with reporters stationed on the platform. His message: The Democrats have a civil rights backlash problem, but the frontlash against the Republican ticket by liberals and independents is three times as strong.

He said the national and state polls show the number of nominal Democrats who will vote Republican in November ranges from "negligible in some states" on up to 10 to 15 per cent of the Democrats in some states.

With that off his chest, Johnson marched into a noisy party in a lounge where admirers were singing "happy birthday" in observance of his 56th. There, Johnson cut a 10-foot square cake depicting all of the states, slicing first into the Texas area.

Johnson then stepped out on a balcony overlooking the boardwalk, crowded by people for a quarter of a mile in each direction, and watched fireworks outline his picture in the sky.

But it was back to business today, with politics the topic of the hour.

Reject Soviet Charges On Nuclear Weapons

MOSCOW (AP)—The United States and Britain today rejected Soviet charges that the proposed multi-nation nuclear force is designed to give West Germany nuclear weapons. They renewed offers to sign a treaty banning the spread of nuclear weapons.

Notes from the Moscow embassies of the two North Atlantic Treaty Organization powers were delivered to the Soviet Foreign Ministry.

West Germany, a main target of Soviet criticism on the multinational force, was not immediately involved in the reply, its embassy here said, but a West German note may have been handed to the Soviet Embassy in Bonn.

Intensified field training has been set up at Drum by Col. Frank W. Harkin, commanding officer of the 27th Division Artillery.

The contingents will return on Saturday, Sept. 12.

Kennedy's Eyes Have Tears as Ovation Is Given

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—Tears glistened in the eyes of Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy as he faced the cheering thousands.

He stood solemn and silent during the 13-minute emotional outburst touched off when he went before the Democratic National Convention Thursday night to honor the memory of his brother, the assassinated President John F. Kennedy.

There were no balloons, no gimmicks, no rousing band music to spur the delegates to action. There was only an outpouring of emotion.

Stands With Bowed Head

Robert Kennedy, who is now a candidate for the U.S. Senate from New York, stood with head bowed while the wave of noise swept over him while he waited to introduce a film portraying highlights of his brother's brief years as President.

Seven times Kennedy sought to begin his speech, but could get no farther than "Mr. Chairman." Each attempt touched off a swelling roar from the throats of the thousands of delegates and spectators that carried the tumult ever higher.

Twice he stepped back and convention officials tried to still the noise, but without effect. Finally, as Kennedy once again began to speak over the shout, it subsided, and a twinkling rap silence replaced the noise.

Then, at once, the quietest, and most poignant moment of the four-day convention.

Delegates Weep

As Kennedy spoke of the hopes and ideals that sustained his brother during his three years as President, and of his pride in the Democratic party, many delegates wept.

Even more handkerchiefs appeared during the film that followed, especially at the end when President Kennedy was shown playing with his children and taking part in happy family activities.

The attorney general took a seat at the back of the platform while the film ran. He watched part of it on a television set in front of him, then turned to watch it on the huge screen mounted at the end of convention hall for the delegates to see.

But as the final, family scenes unfolded he turned away from both and sat looking into space. And when the lights came back on, he ducked his head below the platform wall and dabbed at his eyes with a handkerchief before walking quickly out the back.

Cooper Lake Is

nan said, Cooper Lake "was about full," but on Aug. 28, 1962, the reserve supply had gone down to 9.4 feet, below spillway level. In that year again replenishing rains came with winter and the reservoir gained a reserve which lasted well until this year's drought began depleting the supply.

A month ago the reserve was down an even five feet. It dropped 3.2 feet since then.

The city this year has fared better in drawing on the reserve than in the drought year of 1957, because, since then, all service has been metered, and the drain on the supply has not been as heavy.

Fall Under Wagon

farm tractor owned by Dunn. He was hauling two hay wagons. The Dunn boy, his two brothers, Mark and Howard, and a playmate, Lloyd Johnson, were riding on the first wagon behind the tractor.

Troopers said the boys were tossing corn cobs back and forth when Matthew apparently lost his balance and fell to the pavement between the two hay wagons. The two right wheels of the second wagon passed over the boy's body before Beers could stop the tractor.

State Police reported the injured boy was pronounced dead on arrival at Veterans Memorial Hospital, Ellenville. BCI investigators will continue investigation of the death, it was reported.

Killed as Car Skids

SKANEATELES, N.Y. (AP)—William Hares, 18, was killed when the automobile in which he was riding went out of control early today, skidded 600 feet and rammed a tree on its family's front lawn.

The sheriff's office said Terence M. Clark, 19, of RD2, Skaneateles, was driving Hares home from the village, when the accident occurred on Route 20 five miles east of here.

$99,741 Sewer Grant

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—The State Health Department today announced a grant of $99,741 to the Chautauqua County Sewer Agency for a comprehensive study of sewerage needs.

State Health Commissioner Hollis S. Ingraham said the study would cover areas along the eastern end of Chautauqua Lake in the Town of Ellery, Ellicott, Busti, Kiantone and North Harmony, the City of Jamestown and the villages of Lakewood, Celeron and Falconer.

Beacon Employe Dies When Flame Ignites Clothing

A Beacon city employee died in Highland Hospital that city about an hour after his clothing was ignited by a flaming torch as he was working on a water department project on Nevills Avenue in the Southern Dutchess county.

Police Lieut. Harold Bopp told The Freeman that Henry Simmons, about 58, of 64 Ferry Street, was working with a crew of City Water Department employees, installing pipe in an excavation at about 1:10 p. m. Thursday.

Lieut. Bopp stated that it is believed Simmons was overcome by fumes from the torch that was being used to melt metal for connecting water pipes. Other workmen saw Simmons fall in the flames of the torch. His clothing ignited.

Fellow workers beat out the flames, and Simmons was rushed to Highland Hospital where he died at 2:23 p. m.

Dr. William C. Thompson, Rhinebeck, an assistant medical examiner, ordered an autopsy. He said Simmons suffered burns of the legs, hands and face, but authorities are of the opinion that the workman died of shock.

Probe for Clues To Bombing of Newspaper Office

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Police and FBI agents probed today for clues in the mysterious bombing of the office of a weekly newspaper published by Pulitzer Prize-winner Hazel Brannon Smith.

An explosion ripped the offices of the Northside Reporter in Jackson Thursday night. A policeman said a bomb apparently was thrown through a rear window of the building housing the offices.

No one was in the building. Mrs. Smith won the Pulitzer Prize earlier this year for her editorials, chiefly in the weekly newspaper she publishes at Lexington, some 70 miles north of Jackson. She has been criticized by segregationists for her liberal editorial policy.

Mrs. Smith was in Atlantic City, N.J., serving as a commentator at the Democratic National Convention for the National Broadcasting Co.

Sears Store Is

ounded by parts of North Front Street and Lucas Avenue, Crown Street and Washington Avenue. It was favored especially by up-town merchants, but was not considered large enough since it noted that 10 to 12 acres would be required for the store site. Five other sites had been previously considered.

To Study Terms

Robert H. Herzog, of Kingston Plaza Inc., said the company has made a definite proposal, which the corporation is to study to determine if it can meet all terms cited.

UR Director Hemphill said it was suggested to the Sears Roebuck representatives that a satisfactory site might still be found within the bounds of the uptown UR area if more time were allowed, but they said they could not wait because preliminary details must be completed by July so that the store could be opened in the spring of 1966.

They indicated, however, that another site in the uptown area could be considered, if they were unsuccessful in selecting one elsewhere within city bounds.

Preferred Dividends —
Don't Expect an Increase

Q "I have $5,000 Texas Power & Light preferred. I have had the stock for years and I get the same dividend now as I did when I acquired it. Can you tell me where I can make a greater income and the investment will be just as safe? I am interested only in income."

A I'm afraid that you misunderstand the nature of a preferred stock.

Preferreds are fixed-income securities. The dividend is set in the original indenture and never is increased thereafter, except in the case of certain industrial participating preferreds where a share in earnings with the common is provided for.

I will assume you won the 4.56 per cent issue quoted at 99 1/2 bid to yield 4.56. This is a fairly generous yield on a very high grade "stock," and you cannot do much better in any other investment with equal security.

I believe you should retain these shares.

Q "I have a sum of $10,000 that I'd like to invest. This money was a cash gift from my father. I am in my late twenties and have no immediate need for this money. How can I make good use of it in the stock market?"

A You have a very generous father—a fact which I have no doubt you appreciate.

It seems to me that you are in an ideal position to plan well ahead, to buy strong growth situations, regardless of income, in the expectation that your capital will grow substantially over a period of years.

State Police said DiPiazza allegedly shot the girl six times with an automatic pistol as she screamed for help and attempted to crawl under the village clerk's desk.

Noreen had been shopping with an aunt, Mrs. Alfred E. Irons of Frankfort, for clothes that she planned to take to college in the fall.

They went to the village hall to seek police protection because DiPiazza had been following them, Mrs. Irons said, but there was nobody in the police headquarters.

Noreen saw DiPiazza enter the building and ran into the clerk's office shouting "He's got a gun," Mrs. Irons said.

Mrs. Irons said she struck DiPiazza with a newly purchased food blender while the clerk, Fred Petrelli, struggled with him until police appeared.

Police said DiPiazza had been attempting to date Noreen for three years. He was sent to a mental hospital last February after he assaulted Noreen and her parents during a conference in the Herkimer County district attorney's office. The district attorney said the discussion was held to try to persuade DiPiazza to stop annoying the girl.

After she was released from Marcy State Hospital, DiPiazza pleaded guilty to an assault charge in Iliou Police Court. He was placed on probation for two years and ordered to stay away from the girl.

Noreen's father was in a bank at the time of the shooting arranging a loan for her first year in college.

A graduate of St. Mary's Academy, a Roman Catholic school in Little Falls, Noreen planned to enter Maria Regina College in Syracuse in September.

Her mother, a registered nurse, learned of her daughter's death while driving home from work at a Utica hospital.

Gracie Allen . . .

Edward Allen, a song and dance man then booked in San Francisco.

At 3 1/2 she had made her stage debut. But she continued in Catholic schools until she was 14, when she began a dancing act with her three older sisters.

Later, she joined an Irish song and dance act and at one time went to secretarial school in Hoboken, N.J. It was in New Jersey that she met George.

She saw him on a bill at Union Hill, N.J., where he was booked as Burns and Lorraine. They met after the show and George revealed he was seeking a new partner. He suggested that Gracie join him.

Gracie recalled later: "Of course George had written this act for himself, with himself as the comedian, and I as the straight man. But the funny thing — my straight lines got the laughs. People laughed twice as hard at my not being funny as they laughed at George's being funny. When we came off after the first show, he said, 'We're switching parts, Gracie.' He rewrote the act then and there."

Burns and Allen played vaudeville for three years before he was able to convince her they should get married. They were wed in Cleveland on Jan. 7, 1926.

After their marriage they were propelled into the big time.

They became headliners in vaudeville and starred on the bill that ended Vaudeville at New York's Palace Theater. After guest-starring on Rudy Vallee and Guy Lombardo radio programs, they began their own show on Feb. 15, 1932.

George once analyzed his wife's humor: "Gracie is not really crazy. If she were, we couldn't get a day's work. 'Gracie has a sort of illogical logic. To her, everything else is a little nuts, and after listening to her, you think maybe she's right.'"

The Burns lived in the same Beverly Hills home for 25 years and were a part of the social life, usually in tandem with their close friends, Jack and Mary Benny. The Burns had two adopted children, Sandra, born in 1934, and Ronald, in 1935.

name. His theme: "Be kind to Republicans. They might join us."

"The American presidency," he said, "is not the place for a man who is impetuous in one moment and indecisive in the next; who is violently for something one day, and violently opposed on the next; whose statements on matters of major policy are so confusing and contradictory that neither friend nor foe knows where he stands."

Emotional Moments

The convention had its moment of emotion Thursday night when Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, who had been sitting somberly on a step awaiting his turn, climbed to the podium and stood in full view of the delegates. The filmed 1,600 days of his brother, the late President John F. Kennedy, was about to be shown.

As handclapping applause began, the organ boomed into sound. Within 30 seconds, it was silent. But the applause went on, welling up from the floor, where state banners were dancing in cadence, to the crowded balconies.

For 13 minutes there was a sustained outburst of sentiment as the slight young man stood motionless, his arms at his sides, the silent symbol of a president who had been murdered and of all of the clan of an administration which had died with him.

Frontlash Is Stronger

When the President had concluded his speech, Johnson held an impromptu news conference with reporters stationed on the platform. His message: The Democrats have a civil rights backlash problem, but the frontlash against the Republican ticket by liberals and independents is three times as strong.

He said the national and state polls show the number of nominal Democrats who will vote Republican in November ranges from "negligible in some states on up to 10 to 15 per cent of the Democrats in some states."

With that off his chest, Johnson marched into a noisy party in a lounge where admirers were singing "happy birthday" in observance of his 56th. There, Johnson cut a 10-foot square cake depicting all of the states, slicing first into the Texas area.

Johnson then stepped out on a balcony overlooking the boardwalk, crowded by people for a quarter of a mile in each direction, and watched fireworks outline his picture in the sky.

But it was back to business today, with politics the topic of the hour.

Reject Soviet Charges On Nuclear Weapons

MOSCOW (AP)—The United States and Britain today rejected Soviet charges that the proposed multi-nation nuclear force is designed to give West Germany nuclear weapons. They renewed offers to sign a treaty banning the spread of nuclear weapons.

Notes from the Moscow embassies of the two North Atlantic Treaty Organization powers were delivered to the Soviet Foreign Ministry.

West Germany, a main target of Soviet criticism on the multi-national force, was not immediately involved in the reply, its embassy here said, but a West German note may have been handed to the Soviet Embassy in Bonn.

Kennedy's Eyes Have Tears as Ovation Is Given

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—Tears glistened in the eyes of Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy as he faced the cheering thousands.

He stood solemn and silent during the 13-minute emotional outburst touched off when he went before the Democratic National Convention Thursday night to honor the memory of his brother, the assassinated President John F. Kennedy.

There were no balloons, no gimmicks, no rousing band music to spur the delegates to action. There was only an outpouring of emotion.

Stands With Bowed Head

Robert Kennedy, who is now a candidate for the U.S. Senate from New York, stood with head bowed while the wave of noise swept over him while he waited to introduce a film portraying highlights of his brother's brief years as President.

Seven times Kennedy sought to begin his speech, but could get no farther than, "Mr. Chairman." Each attempt touched off a swelling roar from the throats of the thousands of delegates and spectators that carried the tumult ever higher.

Twice he stepped back and convention officials tried to still the noise, but without effect. Finally, as Kennedy once again began to speak over the shouting, it subsided, and a twinkling rap silence replaced the noise. It was, at once, the quietest, and most poignant moment of the four-day convention.

Delegates Weep

Even those handkerchiefs appeared during the film that followed, especially at the end when President Kennedy was shown playing with his children and taking part in happy family activities.

The attorney general took a seat at the back of the platform while the film ran. He watched part of it on a television set in front of him, then turned to watch it on the huge screen mounted at the end of convention hall for the delegates to see.

As the final, family scenes unfolded he turned away from both and sat looking into space. And when the lights came back on, he ducked his head below the platform wall and dabbed at his eyes with a handkerchief before walking quickly out the back.

Parents Urged

"I submit, however, that the issue is whether or not these children will receive the safety protection they deserve," he pointed out.

"Since the vast majority of property owners in Kingston have always assumed 100 per cent of the cost of putting in their own sidewalks and curbs," he continued, "I can see no justification in granting a special privilege to the few property owners involved in the John F. Kennedy and Sophie Finn School sidewalk situation," he said.

"Therefore at the regular September meeting of the Council I am once again requesting money for the construction of sidewalks and or curbing on Delaware Avenue, Gross Street, and Mary's Avenue where the property owners have not complied with the request of the Board of Public Works," he said.

"I hope the parents of the children involved will urge their aldermen to grant these necessary funds," he concluded.

Local Guard Units

Intensified field training has been set up at Drum by Col. Frank W. Harkin, commanding officer of the 27th Division Artillery.

The units for the first time will utilize the new M 108 howitzer, the most modern conventional weapon now used by the Army.

The contingents will return on Saturday, Sept. 12.

2 Scenes During Convention Are Full of Emotion

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Amid all the sound and fury, the oratory and the cheers, two quiet scenes recorded in close-up by the television cameras provided emotion-filled moments on the final anti-climactic day of the Democratic National Convention.

First, around noon on NBC, there was the moment at a reception for Jacqueline Kennedy after some of the late president's favorite prose and poetry had been read movingly by Mr. and Mrs. Fredric March. There was a suggestion of tears, it seemed to this viewer, as the former first lady, in a soft, almost inaudible voice, thanked "all of you who made his shining years possible."

Then, when the convention crowd almost blew off the roof in a 12-minute demonstration, the cameras lingered on the sad face of its object, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy. He stood, as if alone, looking as one viewer said "like a young boy close to tears."

As if reading minds, NBC's Chet Huley observed at the end of the demonstration that "each individual must deduce on his own what this means—whether it is his Kennedy's own or because he's the symbol of his brother."

Two films occupied considerable time at the convention and on the three networks Thursday night. The first CBS' Eric Sevareid dismissed as "a typical campaign biography" of the presidential candidate, consisting of a batch of film clips narrated in early "March of Time" style. It contrasted sharply with an imaginative well-edited film memoir, "A Thousand Days," of the late President John F. Kennedy, which produced an emotional reaction in the hall and in millions of homes.

nan said, Cooper Lake "was about full," but on Aug. 28, 1962, the reserve supply had gone down to 9.4 feet below spillway level. In that year again replenishing rains came by winter and the reservoir gained a reserve which lasted well until this year's drought began depleting the supply.

A month ago the reserve was down an even five feet. It dropped 3.2 feet since then.

The city this year has fared better in drawing on the reserve than in the drought year of 1957, because, since then, all service has been metered, and the drain on the supply has not been as heavy.

farm tractor owned by Dunn. He was hauling two hay wagons. The Dunn boy, his two brothers, Mark and Howard, and a playmate, Lloyd Johnson, were riding on the first wagon behind the tractor.

Troopers said the boys were tossing corn cobs back and forth when Matthew apparently lost his balance and fell to the pavement between the two hay wagons. The two right wheels of the second wagon passed over the boy's body before Beers could stop the tractor.

State Police reported the injured boy was pronounced dead on arrival at Veterans Memorial Hospital, Ellenville. BCI investigators will continue investigation of the death, it was reported.

Beacon Employee Dies When Flame Ignites Clothing

A Beacon city employee died in Highland Hospital that city about an hour after his clothing was ignited by a flaming torch as he was working on a water department project on Nevills Avenue in the Southern Dutchess city.

Police Lieut. Harold Bopp told The Freeman that Henry Simmons, about 58, of 64 Ferry Street, was working with a crew of City Water Department employees, installing pipe in an excavation at about 1:10 p. m. Thursday.

Lieut. Bopp stated that it is believed Simmons was overcome by fumes from the torch that was being used to melt metal for connecting water pipes. Other workers saw Simmons fall in the flames of the torch. His clothing ignited.

Fellow workers beat out the flames, and Simmons was rushed to Highland Hospital where he died at 2:23 p. m.

Dr. William G. Thompson, Rhinebeck, an assistant medical examiner, ordered an autopsy. He said Simmons suffered burns of the legs, hands and face, but authorities are of the opinion that the workman died of shock.

Probe for Clues To Bombing of Newspaper Office

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Police and FBI agents probed today for clues in the mysterious bombing of the office of a weekly newspaper published by Pulitzer Prize-winner Hazel Brannon Smith.

An explosion ripped the offices of the Northside Reporter in Jackson Thursday night. A policeman said a bomb apparently was thrown through a rear window of the building housing the offices.

No one was in the building. Mrs. Smith won the Pulitzer Prize earlier this year for her editorials, chiefly in the weekly newspaper she publishes at her hometown of Lexington, some 70 miles north of Jackson. She has been criticized by segregationists for her liberal editorial policy.

Mrs. Smith was in Atlantic City, N.J., serving as a commentator at the Democratic National Convention for the National Broadcasting Co.

Sears Store Is

bounded by parts of North Front Street and Lucas Avenue, Crown Street and Washington Avenue. It was favored especially by up-to-date merchants, but was not considered large enough since it noted that 10 to 12 acres would be required for the store site. Five other sites had been previously discussed.

To Study Terms

Robert H. Herzog, of Kingston Plaza Inc., said the company has made a definite proposal, which the corporation is to study to determine if it can meet all terms cited.

UR Director Hemphill said it was suggested to the Sears Roebuck representatives that a satisfactory site might still be found within the bounds of the uptown UR area if more time were allowed, but they said they could not wait because preliminary details must be completed by next July so that the store could be opened in the spring of 1966.

They indicated, however, that another site in the uptown area could be considered, if they were unsuccessful in selecting one elsewhere within city bounds.

Killed as Car Skids

SKANEATELES, N.Y. (AP)—William Hares, 18, was killed when the automobile in which he was riding went out of control early today, skidded 600 feet and rammed a tree on his family's front lawn.

The sheriff's office said Terence M. Clark, 19, of RD2, Skaneateles, was driving Hares home from the village, when the accident occurred on Route 20 five miles east of here.

E. W.
A) I'm afraid that you misunderstand the nature of a preferred stock.

Preferreds are fixed-income securities. The dividend is set in the original indenture and never is increased thereafter — except in the case of certain industrial participating preferreds where a share in earnings with the common is provided for.

I will assume you won the 4.56 per cent issue quoted at 99 1/2 bid to yield 4.56. This is a fairly generous yield on a very high grade "tock, and you cannot do much better in any other investment with equal security.

I believe you should retain these shares.

Tomson Pitches 4-Hitter, Ks 12

Hurley's Babe Ruth League team trounced The 35 Club, 9 to 2, Thursday in the single game playoff for the American division championship. Joel Tomson pitched a four-hitter and fanned 12 for Hurley.

Hurley will now play Knights of Columbus, National division winners, in a best-of-three championship series starting Saturday at 6 p. m. at Dietz stadium. The second game is scheduled Sunday at 5 p. m. at the stadium and a third, if necessary, Monday at 6 p. m. at the stadium.

Leading 4-1 at the end of five Hurley broke the game wide open with a five-run rally that chased starter Paul Koepen in the sixth inning.

Wildness Hurts

Thomson held the 35 Club in check, yielding single tallies only in the fifth and seventh innings. Koepen, yielding seven hits, pitched effectively but got himself in jams with bases on balls. Four walks and a hit batsman were the principal ingredients in Hurley's three-run rally in the second inning.

Charles Moore and Dave Carey connected for triples and James Cronin and Tomson hit doubles. Dennis Ahearn of 35 Club and Al Vogt of Hurley hit two singles each. Koepen struck out ten and walked six. Steve Schabot got the final out for 35 Club after Hurley had chased five runs across the plater.

Senior Golfers Name de Lisio King Memorial Award Winner

President Cited For Service to Golf in Area

A. J. de LISIO

Directors of the Ulster County Seniors Golf Association have re-elected Anthony J. (Tony) de Lisio of Woodstock to his 11th consecutive term as president and named him winner of the 1964 Harold F. King Memorial Award.

The double honor was bestowed on the prominent golf figure at a special meeting of the directors in Woodstock.

The King Memorial Award is awarded annually by the association for "continuing service to and interest in golf over the years." It was created in memory of Harold F. King, a charter member of the association who won the Class A title in 1955.

The association also adopted a resolution memorializing the late Maurice Davenport for his interest and accomplishments in golf. Davenport served a director of the association for many years.

Also re-elected were: Floyd

Fabian L. Russell, Twaalfskill; and Harry Hohnhorst and Bruff W. Olin of Woodstock.

Organized Seniors

Flint organized the Seniors group in 1953 for Ulster County golfers 50 years and over. He was president the first year and was succeeded by de Lisio, who has served ever since.

de Lisio is one of the most widely known golf personalities in the mid-Hudson area. He was president of Woodstock Country Club for 11 years and a member of the Board of Governors for more than 20 years. He and Flint have been largely responsible for the continued growth of the seniors association.

de Lisio and his wife, the widely known and brilliant player, Wiggle de Lisio, are among the best known husband and wife golf couples in the area. Mrs. de Lisio has won numerous club and county titles and is the current New York State Senior Women's champion.

The deLisios have been members of Woodstock Country Club for many years and also joined the Twaalfskill Club this season.

Hurley will now play Knights of Columbus, National division winners, in a best-of-three championship series starting Saturday at 6 p. m. at Dietz stadium. The second game is scheduled Sunday at 5 p. m. at the stadium and a third, if necessary, Monday at 6 p. m. at the stadium.

Leading 4-1 at the end of five Hurley broke the game wide open with a five-run rally that chased starter Paul Koeppen in the sixth inning.

Wildness Hurts
Tomson held the 35 Club in check, yielding single tallies only in the fifth and seventh innings. Koeppen, yielding seven hits, pitched effectively but got himself in jams with bases on balls. Four walks and a hit batsman were the principal ingredients in Hurley's three-run rally in the second inning.

Charles Moore and Dave Carey connected for triples and James Cronin and Tomson hit doubles. Dennis Ahearn of 35 Club and Al Vogt of Hurley hit two singles each. Koeppen struck out ten and walked six. Steve Schabot got the final out for 35 Club after Hurley had chased five runs across the plater.

Big M Feature
To Bonnie Duane

MONTICELLO — Bonnie Duane, hung on the outside for the greater part of a half mile, came between horses in the stretch to win her eighth straight race, sixth at Monticello in last night's feature, a two-year-old pace for a purse of $1,500.

The Duane Hanover Bay filly, driven by Bill Vaughan, nipped late closing Freight Comet by a nose in 2:06.3. Sent off as the 9-5 favorite, Bonnie Duane dueled Adios Fanny and Fanny George for the early lead before Vaughan found a spot on the rail at the quarter pole.

As they swung around the clubhouse turn for the second time, the winner moved out to challenge again but couldn't move in front for keeps until just before hitting the wire.

Bonnie Duane paid $5.80, $4.40 and $3.80 in capturing her ninth race in 14 outings and boxing her earnings over the $6,750 mark for the season. Freight Comet and Freight Target, the Clint Hodgins stable entry, finished second and third, paying $7.20 and $7.70.

Longshots figured in tonight's daily double. Pola Scott, a 14-1 outsider, won the first race with Roy Sadovsky in the sulky. The brown filly returned $31.90. Margee Endur, driven by John Dill, went wire to wire in the second race, paying $25.20 and producing a daily double pay-off of $371.60 on the 7-5 combination.

Braves Pummel SF, 13-0

By MURRAY CHASS

Associated Press Sports Writer
Hank Fischer, who had failed to last two innings in each of his previous four starts, pitched a three-hitter as Milwaukee pummeled San Francisco 13-0 Thursday night.

The American League-leading Orioles were idle, but they open a vital four-game series tonight with the Chicago White Sox whose 5-2 loss to Minnesota Thursday put them one-half game behind the Orioles.

The teams played a four-game series last weekend, with Baltimore winning three times and moving from one-half game behind the White Sox to 1½ in front. The upcoming four games — two tonight and one each Saturday and Sunday — will be the last between the contenders. Milwaukee gave Fischer a quick edge against the Giants, and the 24-year-old right-hander used it to great advantage.

Didn't Have Chance

In those previous four starts, Fischer didn't give the Braves a chance to build a lead for him. He was battered for 18 runs in four innings in the appearances, running from Aug. 2 through Aug. 15.

The game was the only one in the National League. In other American League games, Detroit nipped Boston 5-4, and Los Angeles bombed Kansas City 7-1.

Fischer received strong support from Rico Carty and Woodward, who each drove in four runs. Carty ignited a six-run first inning with a homer and later tripled in three runs. Woodward climaxed the first-inning outburst with a three-run double and knocked in another run with a single.

Hank Aaron drove in a pair of runs while Lee Maye ended the 16-hit barrage with a homer in the eighth.

Jimmie Hall scored the tie-breaking run in the Twins' ninth on a double steal and a throwing error by Chicago catcher J.C. Martin. Hall had singled and advanced to second on a walk to Bob Allison. When the runners tried a double steal, Martin threw the ball past third base, permitting Hall to come home.

300th for Adeock

Minnesota added two more runs in the inning on Bernie Allen's single and Ed Fisher's wild pitch. The game had been tied 2-2 since the fifth when the White Sox rallied for two runs on Pete Ward's homer and Mike Hershberger's run-scoring single.

Detroit, trailing 4-2, rallied for three runs in the eighth inning against the Red Sox. Jerry Lumpe tripled in one, and Don Demeter knocked in the other two with a double off relief ace Dick Radatz. Fred Gladding halted a Boston threat in the eighth inning, retiring Dick Stuart on a grounder with the bases loaded.

Joe Adeock's 300th career homer was one of three for the Angels. The two-run blast off Kansas City loser Diego Segui highlighted a four-run second inning. Willie Smith and Lenny Green also connected for Los Angeles. Adeock added two singles and another RBI.

Unknown Fires Record 65 Score To Pace Carling

BIRMINGHAM, Mich. (AP) — Oakland Hills' tricky hump-backed greens and rookie nerves held the answer today as the game's greatest golfers continue their bid in the second round of the $200,000 Carling tournament.

The unfathomable greens took their toll of the greats but the nerves of the untired youngsters held firm as 24-year-old George Archer, a pro of less than a year, grabbed the first round lead Thursday for the $35,000 first prize with a record five-under-par 65.

Only four players broke Oakland Hills' par 70. Three of them were young pros and the baby-faced Texan.

Bruce Devlin, 26, a former Australian amateur star who has been a pro less than three years, was second at 68. Dick Sikes, 24, and Burke were next, tied at 69.

Others were 70 and over, including all the hotshot favorites.

Can the youngsters — Archer, Devlin and Sikes — hold up under the terrific pressure of such a rich tournament?

Can the big name players — Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus, Ken Venturi and Tony Lema — solve the intricacies of the greens which proved so frustrating on the opening day?

Palmer, who led the so-called Big Three with a 70, needed an 18-foot putt on the final hole to finish level with par, tied with nine others for fifth place.

Gary Player, bunched with almost two dozen players at 72, said "any man who could be sure of sinking a putt over two feet had to be a genius."

Nicklaus missed two putts of under two feet in a round of 73 and said, "I was driving well, but I missed seven greens and I couldn't putt."

AL Reconsiders And Will Hold Meeting on Sale

BOSTON (AP) — At long last, after considerable discussion, consternation, unfavorable publicity and some apparent infighting, the American League powers that be are going to get together face to face and discuss the sale of the New York Yankees to CBS.

What's more, says the Columbia Broadcasting System, if it doesn't come out right, they'll pull out of the whole affair.

The Yankees, in a formal statement, said Topping "wishes to make it known that President Cronin has acceded to his request that a meeting be called to resolve any possible doubt as to the validity of the transfer."

And, in Chicago, Arthur Allyn, president of the White Sox and an outspoken critic of the sale, suggested the meeting was suggested as a result of a telegram he had his lawyer send to the American League counsel, Ben Fiery.

Joe Cronin, American League president who had once declined to call such a meeting, said it was his own idea.

"I feel it is in the best interest of the league and of all its members," he said Thursday.

The meeting is set for Sept. 9 in Boston. At issue is (1) the sale of 80 per cent of the Yankees — for four decades the dominant team in baseball — to CBS for $11.2 million, with option to buy the rest in five years, the sale to become final in November, and (2) the constitutionality of the conditions surrounding the sale, which have been questioned by Allyn and Kansas City owner Charles O. Finley, the only dissenting owners in the American League.

The sale was approved by eight of the 10 league members in a telegraphic poll conducted by Cronin. Finley and Allyn have contended that a meeting should have been called to discuss the sale.

Allyn, Finley and scores of columnists, newspapers and national magazines have decried the sale as putting CBS as a television network and baseball owners — in the position of both a buyer and a seller. The sale also had drawn attention from the U.S. Congress as a possible violation of the anti-trust laws.

Saratoga Offers Steeplechase and Kelso at Track

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N.Y. (AP) — The $17,500 Saratoga Steeplechase Handicap and an appearance by the great money-winner Kelso were the main attractions at Saratoga race track today.

The steeplechase provided the last opportunity for the jumpers at the annual meeting here and drew four of the best in the country.

Heading the field was Mrs. Stephen C. Clark Jr.'s Amber Diver, the 1963 champion. Other top-flight entries were Tuscarora, Rao Raja and Nautilus.

Kelso was a heavy favorite in the $9,500 Mechanicville, a turf race at a mile and a furlong. The great gelding of Bohemia Stables was assigned 118 pounds and faced eight rivals of ordinary ability.

Kelso's trainers decided to use the race as a prep for the $100,000 added Aqueduct, to be run on Labor Day at the "Big A". He rates second to Round Table on the all-time list of money winners, with $16,634,952 to Round Table's $1,749,869.

In Wednesday's running of the rich Spinaway Stakes, Candalaria smothered five other 2-year-old fillies with a wire-to-wire victory in 1:10 4/5 for the six furlongs. The daughter of Olympia earned $32,682 of the $81,050 gross and paid $6.70, $3.40 and $2.50 in the mutuels.

The Darby Dan Farm entry, with Braulio Baeza up, scored by a length over Marshua. Queen Empress was a neck behind in third.

The Saratoga stewards slapped a 10-day suspension on Jockey Heliodoro Gutierrez for his riding in Tuesday's seventh race. His mount, Naleika, finished second but was disqualified and placed fourth for bothering two horses on the first turn.

The suspension becomes effective Friday and runs through Sept. 6.

Eighth Seeding Pleases Ashe

SOUTHAMPTON, N.Y. (AP) — Arthur Ashe said he was glad to hear he was seeded eighth in the U.S. Tennis Championships at Forest Hills.

"It means a lot more pressure for me, but that's good. You expect a lot of pressure if you want to get to the top," said Ashe, a 21-year-old Negro from Richmond, Va., who is the first of his race ever named to a U.S. Davis Cup challenge round team.

Ashe is seeded fourth in the Meadow Club International grass court tournament and plays sixth-seeded Charles Pasarell of Puerto Rico in today's quarter-finals. Ashe is ranked sixth nationally, Pasarella 10th. "It's a funny thing," Ashe said. "I'm seeded fourth here at Southampton but seeded third at Forest Hills."

By third, he meant only two other Americans are seeded in the U.S. championships, Dennis Ralston, No. 2, and Chuck McKinley, No. 4.

Ashe got past the third round Thursday by beating Graham Stillwell, England's junior champion, 6-3, 9-7.

Ralston, considered America's best player on the basis of the Forest Hills rankings and a pair of victories over McKinley, will take his No. 1 seeding against Martin Riesen of Evanston, Ill., seeded fifth, in another of today's quarter-finals.

Ralston advanced by beating Betsy Harrison of Richmond, Va., assistant squash and tennis coach at West Point, 6-2, 6-3.

Some people are getting ordinary tires when they ask for tiger paws.

Nobody says you have to buy tiger paws. You can buy something else. But if you want tiger paws, you ought to get tiger paws. Not something else. Tiger paws are sold only at U.S. Royal tiger paw stores. No place else. We're that kind of store.

So if you buy a tire at another kind of store, you'll be buying an ordinary tire. Not tiger paws. Here's how different tiger paws are from ordinary tires (besides having a red circle): They were tested at 120 miles an hour for a hundred miles without a stop. Without a failure. They went 19,000 miles at a sustained speed of 90 miles an hour for 16 hours a day. Without a failure. (And at that speed tread wears out more than twice as fast as it does at fifty.) Sure-footed tiger paws handle beautifully at high speeds. And corner as nimbly as tigers. Now, do you want tiger paws? Head our way. We're an official U.S. Royal tiger paw store.

Braves Pummel SF, 13-0

By MURRAY CHASS

Hank Fischer, who had failed to last two innings in each of his previous four starts, pitched a

meled San Francisco 13-0

Thursday night.

The American League-leading

Orioles were idle, but they open a vital four-game series tonight with the Chicago White Sox whose 5-2 loss to Minnesota

game behind the Orioles.

game series last weekend, with

and moving from one-half game behind the White Sox to 1½ in front. The upcoming four games

— two tonight and one each Saturday and Sunday — will be the last between the contenders.

Milwaukee gave Fischer a

and the 24-year-old right-hander

Didn't Have Chance

In those previous four starts,

Fischer didn't give the Braves a chance to build a lead for him.

He was battered for 18 runs in

running from Aug. 2 through

Aug. 15.

The game was the only one in the National League. In other

American League games, Detroit nipped Boston 5-4, and Los Angeles bombed Kansas City 7-

Fischer received strong support from Rico Carty and Wood-

run first inning with a homer

Woodward climaxed the first-inning outburst with a three-run

run with a single.

Hank Aaron drove in a pair of

16-hit barrage with a homer in the eighth.

Jimmie Hall scored the tie-

error by Chicago catcher J.C.

Martin. Hall had singled and advanced to second on a walk to

Bob Allison. When the runners tried a double steal, Martin threw the ball past third base,

300th for Adcock

Minnesota added two more runs in the inning on Bernie Allen's single and Ed Fisher's wild pitch. The game had been tied

2-2 since the fifth when the White Sox rallied for two runs on Pete Ward's homer and Mike

gle.

Detroit, trailing 4-2, rallied for

against the Red Sox. Jerry

Lumpe tripled in one, and Don

Demeter knocked in the other two with a double off relief ace

Dick Radatz. Fred Gladding halted a Boston threat in the eighth inning, retiring Dick

bases loaded.

Joe Adcock's 300th career

homer was one of three for the Angels. The two-run blast off

Kansas City Sen. Diego Segui

inning. Willie Smith and Lenny

Green also connected for Los Angeles. Adcock added two singles and another RBI.

Chinese troops run through field exercises near Nanking. The soldiers are members of the "People's Liberation Army." Soldiers are expected to know a lot about politics and Communist ideology as well as military tactics.

Only rarely does Communist China drop her veil of inscrutability and permit the West to peek in. Recently, the Red Chinese government released several photographs of its military forces on maneuvers. Ford Motor First To Show Sign of 'Give' on Talks DETROIT (AP) — The first sign of "give" in new contract bargaining between the United Auto Workers Union and the automotive industry's Big Three came from Ford Motor Co. Thursday.

Ford agreed in principle to extension of its current contract with the UAW until Sept. 9. Normally, the three-year-old pact would expire Monday night.

The UAW announced Wednesday night it had picked Chrysler Corp. as its 1964 strike target and would call its 80,000 members in Chrysler plants out at 10 a.m. Sept. 9 unless agreement is reached on a new contract by that time.

UAW President Walter P. Reuther said Chrysler, Ford and General Motors Corp. would be asked to extend their contracts to the strike deadline.

GM and Chrysler told newsmen Thursday they would await a formal union request across the bargaining table before announcing a decision.

But after an hour's meeting at Ford, the company announced it had agreed to extend, although formal language still was to be approved by both sides.

GM and Chrysler bargaining was in recess Thursday. New sessions, however, were scheduled at all three today. Talks at Chrysler were to follow a meeting of the UAW's Chrysler council which would direct any strike activity.

Ford, like GM and Chrysler, had served contract termination notice on the UAW, saying in effect the union would have to work without a contract beyond Monday midnight if no new agreement was reached by that time.

Albany Arrest Is Made for Bank Thefts in Nation

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — FBI agents and city police said today they had arrested a man wanted in seven states in connection with bank thefts.

The FBI charged Robert Paul Nemeth, 34, of Cleveland, Ohio, with taking a check, cash and deposit slips overnight from the night depository boxes of two Albany banks. The exact charge was a bank larceny, a felony.

The check and cash totaled about $50.

The agents reported that Nemeth was wanted for questioning about similar thefts in 13 other cities:

Buffalo, N. Y.; St. Paul, Minn.; Omaha and Lincoln, Neb.; Evansville, Ind.; Mattoon and Bloomington, Ill.; Baltimore, Towson, Timonium and Hagerstown, Md., and New Castle and Erie, Pa.

Vernon Bailey, special agent in charge of the FBI office here, said Nemeth also was believed to have been involved in many other such thefts.

Local police had spotted Nemeth Wednesday and notified the FBI, because of the agency's all-points' alert.

FBI agents and Albany detectives arrested him at the Delaware Avenue branch of the First Trust Co. after following him from the other bank, Bailey said.

Nemeth had placed a folded paper device in the deposit boxes to block the chute door which the checks ordinarily drop, Bailey said.

The FBI agent added that Nemeth drove and automobile with Missouri plates but gave Cleveland as his home town, without any street address.

SAWKILL—The Ladies Auxiliary of the Sawkill Fire Company held their first fall meeting at the Sawkill Firehouse, Wednesday evening. The meeting also was the first regular meeting held in the new fiscal year started this year effective July 1 through June 30, 1965.

Dues are now being collected by the treasurer, Mrs. William McGinnis for the current year's membership.

The meeting conducted by president, Mrs. John O'Keefe, included routine business and plans for several events to take place in the near future. On Sept. 27 a Get-acquainted tea will be held at the firehouse from 3 to 5 p. m. and all ladies of the community may attend. This is the second annual tea which the auxiliary has had. Chairman is Mrs. Thomas Malone.

A card party is being planned for Oct. 17, under chairmanship of Mrs. Douglas Dye.

The next regular meeting of the Auxiliary will be held on Oct. 7. Meetings are regularly held the first Wednesday each month, and this past meeting was the regular September scheduled meeting, and was held a week earlier than usual because of other activities in the community on the regular meeting night.

At the Oct. 7 meeting, there will be a toy party following the regular business session. The meeting in October will begin at 7:30 p. m., one half hour earlier than usual. Everyone in the community may attend. Refreshments will be served.

No Case of Polio In Pennsylvania

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP)—Pennsylvania has yet to record a case of polio for 1964, the State Health Department reported today. Health officials, however, do not like to discuss the situation.

"It's like a no-hit baseball game in progress," said Dr. Charles L. Wilbar, state health secretary. "It's considered inadvisable to discuss the outcome until the last batter is out."

Never in the 54-year-old history of keeping records on polio cases has the health department gone this far into the summer without recording a case.

Usually polio reaches its peak in August and begins to decline in October. Last year the state had experienced 47 cases at this date.

Infant Injured In 3-Car Crash

A three-car chain reaction collision occurred at 8:30 p. m. Thursday on Route 9W, Town of Ulster, resulting in injury to a 5-month-old boy. One driver was cited by state troopers.

The cars were operated by Joan Quick, 32 of 189 Tremper Avenue, city; Robert Myers, 52, of Sunset Park, and Ronald Geisler, 19, of Lake Katrine, according to Sergeant Henry S. Rhodes of the Kingston substation.

Howard Jones, 5-month-old, was taken to Kingston Hospital suffering a possible cerebral concussion, troopers said. Geisler was cited by Trooper David Wachtel for driving too close.

According to troopers, the Quick and Myers cars were stopped to make a left turn, when Myers' car was hit in the rear by the Geisler vehicle. The impact pushed Myers car into the back of the Quick automobile, troopers said.

Report Scene of Early CR Troubles Now in Serenity

By STEPHENS BROENING

CAMBRIDGE, Md. (AP) — It's been more than a year since Cambridge was caught up in the first wave of what has since been called the Negro revolution.

A lot has happened since.

The streets no longer are filled with Negro demonstrators, the Maryland National Guard no longer is keeping the peace and there no longer is the sound of gunshots.

In Serenity

Cambridge sits warily aside serenity.

Charles Cornish, the Negro president of the five-man City Council, says it's because of the passage of the Civil Rights Act.

The city attorney, C. Awdry Thompson, says, "It's up to the national civil rights leaders; if they want something to happen, it will happen. If they don't it won't."

Another explanation given is the prolonged absence of Mrs. Gloria Richardson, who led the turbulent civil rights struggle here and who, more than anyone else, is held responsible by the whites for the earlier crises.

Is Now in Newark

Mrs. T. N. Booth, Mrs. Richardson's mother, says her daughter is in Newark, N.J.

A civil rights law, as Cornish points out, has been enacted, and it forbids racial discrimination in most restaurants.

Open accommodations was a prime target of Negroes a year ago. And yet local Negroes are taking no advantage of the law's provisions now.

In the first days after the bill's enactment there were tests by civil rights workers, and with the exception of a restaurant whose owner said his income was derived largely from beer sales, the Negroes were served without fail.

No Trade Since

But white restaurant owners say they have had no Negro trade since. They point to this in support of their contention that the racial crisis here was brought on by "outside agitators."

Stanley Wise, a lieutenant in Mrs. Richardson's Cambridge Nonviolent Action Committee, says only "we're concentrating on schools and jobs now."

In a county designated as an economically distressed area, Negroes have been especially hard hit. The unemployment rate among Negroes has been twice that of whites.

Two job retraining programs have been started in the past year, one under the Area Redevelopment Administration, the other under the Manpower Development Training Act.

Cites Other Grievance

The third major Negro grievance was school segregation — in the case of Dorchester County, the five lower grades remained segregated after seven years of one-grade-a-year integration.

Last fall the School Board dropped the barriers in the last five grades, but retained its policy of requiring parents to request in writing the transfer of their children to another school.

Now, leaderless, Cambridge Negroes seem much as they did before it all began.

Infant Injured In 3-Car Crash

A three-car chain reaction collision occurred at 8:30 p. m. Thursday on Route 9W, Town of Ulster, resulting in injury to a 5-month-old boy. One driver was cited by state troopers.

The cars were operated by Joan Quick, 32 of 189 Tremper Avenue, city; Robert Myers, 52, of Sunset Park, and Ronald Geisler, 19, of Lake Katrine, according to Sergeant Henry S. Rhodes of the Kingston substation.

Howard Jones, 5-month-old, was taken to Kingston Hospital suffering a possible cerebral concussion, troopers said. Geisler was cited by Trooper David Wachtel for driving too close.

According to troopers, the Quick and Myers cars were stopped to make a left turn, when Myers' car was hit in the rear by the Geisler vehicle. The impact pushed Myers car into the back of the Quick automobile, troopers said.

Witness (in an English court)—The shock caused my wife to go off into asterisks.

Our enemies come nearer the truth in their judgments of us than we do in our judgments of ourselves.

Women take such pains to buy a pretty slip, and look frustrated when it shows.

We should gain more by letting ourselves be seen such as we are, than by attempting to appear what we are not.

A man had been convicted on circumstantial evidence. The conviction made him a violator of the habitual criminal statute, which carries a sentence of life imprisonment. In proving the prisoner's previous convictions, his record was placed before the court by the prosecutor and its examination revealed the man had been in prison at the time of the commission of the crime for which he had last been convicted.

To America: Half-brother of the world.

The young father was wheeling the baby carriage around the block on a hot afternoon.

Voice (from an upper window)—My dear!

Young Father (called back)—Now let me alone! We're all right.

An hour later the same voice pleaded:

Voice—Charles, dear! Young Father—Well, what do you want? Anything wrong in the house?

Voice—No, Charles, dear but you have been wheeling Nancy's doll all afternoon. Please give the baby a turn.

THE VICES WE SCOFF AT IN OTHERS, LAUGH AT US WITHIN OURSELVES.

The nightingale feeds on the glow-worm, but it is not the glow-worm that makes it sing; it does not even make it glow.

OUR ANCESTORS

"Chopsticks, eh? Gosh, as soon as I get back to my piano I'll compose a tune about that!"

Weather Satellite Rockets Into Sky For Forecasting

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — A new storm-hunting Nimbus satellite vehicle rocketed into the sky early today with cameras designed to take 2,000 pictures of the world's weather every day.

The 91-foot-tall Thor-Agena booster rocket roared aloft at 1 a. m. Pacific Daylight Time. It was aimed at a 575-mile-high polar orbit from which it could photograph every square mile of the rotating earth's cloud cover at least once a day.

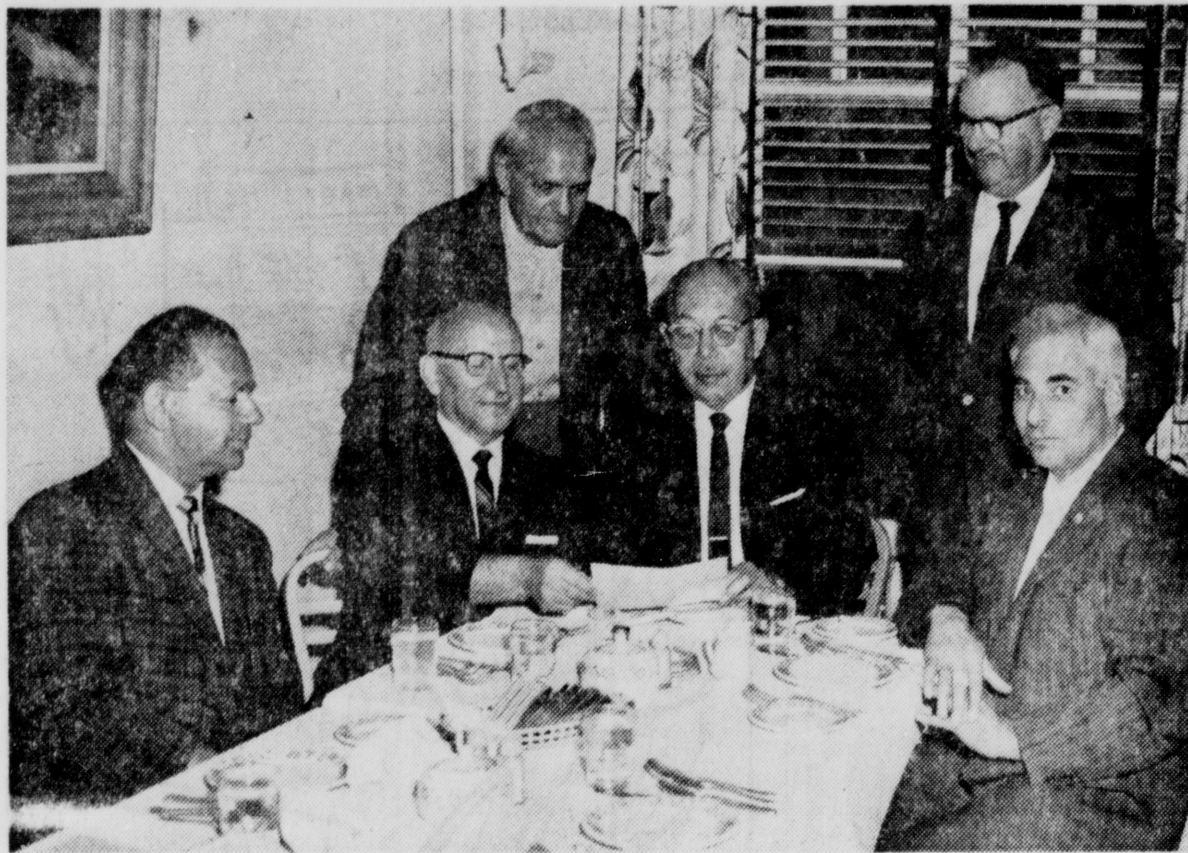

Television cameras similar to those that took Ranger 7's historic close-ups of the moon and night-time infrared picture gear reportedly adapted from secret Samos and Midas space-spy satellites are expected to improve forecasters' ability to spot storms brewing far at sea.

Only Western world weathermen will benefit. Nimbus is not designed to transmit pictures over Soviet territory.

New Israel Bond Drive Stresses Area of Needs

Emphasis was placed on the southern portion of the State of Israel in statements made by Alfred D. Ronder and Herman G. Rafalowsky, general chairman of the 1964 State of Israel Bond Drive at a luncheon meeting Wednesday at Kirkland Hotel.

The luncheon served to inaugurate the drive which will start shortly in Kingston and surrounding communities.

They stressed that a very substantial portion of Israel Bond investments are being devoted to irrigation, industrial and agricultural developments and housing for new immigrants.

The Israel Bond campaign in 1964 is also providing financial resources for the settlement of the Central Galilee area in the north, as well as for expansion of industry, export trade and the exploitation of natural resources.

Ronder and Rafalowsky observed, "Israel's present position is an example of human progress and fills us with a deep sense of pride and admiration for its people, their courage, sacrifice and faith in the face of great trial and gigantic obstacles. They have taken the homeless and oppressed, the dispossessed from many lands and welded them into a productive citizenry in a free, democratically run country."

They stated that Israel has, since May 1, 1963 redeemed over $40,000,000 in matured bonds, representing principal plus 50 per cent interest. Banks in every area of the United States have been purchasing Israel Bonds for investment purposes on a large scale. The increased sale of Israel Bonds, looking toward meeting the 1964 goal of $85,000,000 is most essential.

The continued high rate of immigration and natural population increase will give Israel a population of over 3,000,000 in 1970.

The large scale development of the Negev desert area is vital to Israel's future. The use of increased Israel Bond dollars will hasten the flow of life-giving water to the parched desert and enable newcomers to live there. Many new communities are rising in the desert and the use of Israel Bond investments makes this possible.

Ronder and Rafalowsky urged the community to cooperate fully with the Israel Bond program and stated that a series of gatherings would shortly be held to enable the Kingston community to fully participate.

CORE Members Hear Reports on Atlantic City

Ulster County Chapter of the Congress of Racial Equality met Thursday night at 113 Broadway to hear eyewitness accounts by 10 of its members who went to Atlantic City Wednesday to join the CORE vigil outside the Democratic National Convention, protesting the failure of the Democratic Party to seat the Mississippi Freedom Party inside.

Newly elected Secretary William Jones, who headed the group, called it "one of the most stirring experiences in anyone's lifetime. We saw history being made. Addressing the assembly outside, CORE National Chairman James Farmer emphasized that this peaceful demonstration had been absolutely necessary to lay the convention's failure to seat the Freedom Party on the conscience of the nation."

The group estimated there had been about 700 demonstrators outside. "The women sat in a circle on the boardwalk; behind them stood the men, locking arms. At the far edge of the circle stood a burnt-out car with a cross on it, the bell from one of the churches that had been bombed and a casket symbolizing the three young civil rights workers who were slain in Mississippi early in June. "The assembled throng alternated with singing freedom songs and listening to speakers like Mrs. Fanny Lou Hammer, of Mississippi, who for her efforts to register voters in that state, has been put off her land, bombed out of her home, and beaten with blackjacks in a Mississippi jail, he said.

Indians Go to Moscow

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Defense Minister Y. B. Chavan and a delegation of military officers left New Delhi for Moscow today to try and get more military assistance from the Soviet Union.

In an interview at the airport, Chavan said "the main emphasis" of his visit will be to speed up the production in India of Soviet MIG jet fighter planes. Managers of the three Indian plants which produce the planes have been in Moscow for exploratory talks since last week.

Weather Satellite Rockets Into Sky For Forecasting

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — A new storm-hunting Nimbus satellite vehicle rocketed into the sky early today with cameras designed to take 2,000 pictures of the world's weather every day.

The 91-foot-tall Thor-Agena booster rocket roared aloft at 1 a. m. Pacific Daylight Time. It was aimed at a 575-mile-high polar orbit from which it could photograph every square mile of the rotating earth's cloud cover at least once a day.

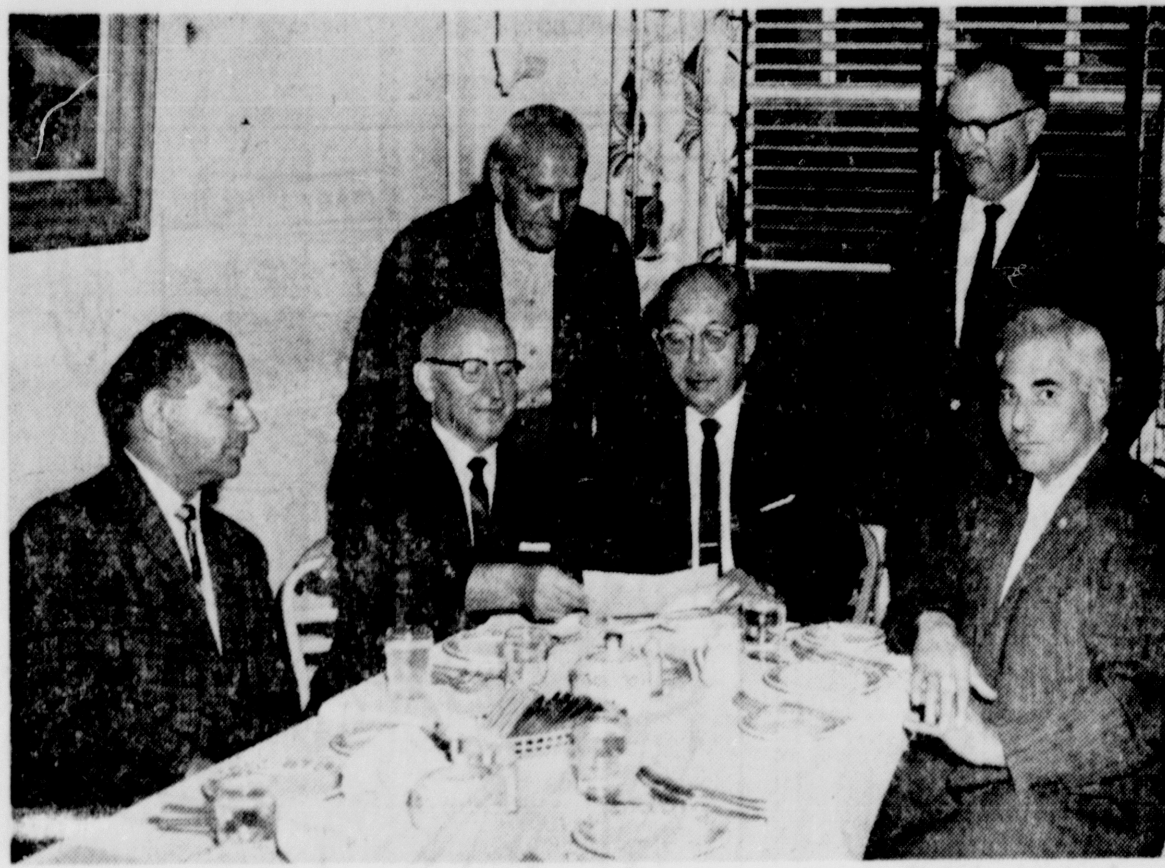

Television cameras similar to those that took Ranger 7's historic close-ups of the moon and night-time infrared picture gear reportedly adapted from secret Samos and Midas space-spy satellites are expected to improve forecasters' ability to spot storms brewing far at sea.

Only Western world weathermen will benefit. Nimbus is not designed to transmit pictures over Soviet territory.
